Sunset Club Enjoined

A temporary restraining order has been issued by Circuit Court Judge Marshall Craig against the Sunset Improvement Club of Sikeston.

On application of the state, represented by Prosecuting Attorney Fielding Potashnick, the temporary injunction was ordered Thursday.

The state contends that the club violated the liquor laws of Missouri and the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jimmerson, had knowledge that the violations were taking place in their building.

A hearing has been set at 11 a.m. Monday in circuit court. The defendants, consisting of directors of the club and the property owners, will be asked at the hearing to show reason why the temporary injunction should not be made permanent.

Attorney Jack Edwards, representing Jimmerson, said today that he expects to show proof that there are no grounds for the injunction.

Before an injunction is justified, a place must be shown to be a nuisance, Edwards said. The Sunset club is not operating as a nuisance, anymore than the Sikeston Country Club or the American Legion, he stated.

The Sunset Improvement club is a legally organized not for profit corporation, which was approved by Secretary of State James Kirkpatrick July 18, 1966.

The club has a five-man board membership and rents a building at 108 Luther in Sunset addition. The building was formerly called Jimmerson's Blue Room.

Louis Jimmerson operated a package liquor store on one side of the building, and a tavern selling 3.2 per cent beer in another section of the same building. He had been in business more than three years.

The city of Sikeston re-issued the package liquor license, but it was not renewed by the State department of liquor control.

Jimmerson was called to a city council meeting June 6, before his licenses expired on July 1. A five-page list of complaints compiled from police radio messages was presented to the council by Police Chief Arthur Bruce.

The complaints were recorded from Jan. 1, 1965, until the time of the June council meeting. The nature of the complaints ranged from calls that a coat was reported stolen from a car, while it was parked near Jimmerson's, to allegations of rape in an alley near the Blue Room. Most of the complaints concerned fights in or near the Blue Room.

After the complaints were read, Jimmerson contended to the council that if they did not re issue his license on the basis of the complaints, he would be penalized for cooperating with the law. He said

Bond Issues Pass

MOREHOUSE -- Two bond issues for water and sewerage treatment systems were passed by voters Tuesday.

One proposal calling for issuing $180,000 in general obligation bonds, passed, 505-79. These bonds will be used to construct, improve and extend the water and sewerage systems and provide a water treatment plant.

The second, which calls for $160,000 of revenue bonds, passed, 503-66.

The bonds will be paid by a higher tax rate and higher water bills.

City Clerk Jack Taylor said engineers must set up specifications for the systems, bids must be taken and contracts awarded before construction can begin.

Third Fugitive Captured

KANSAS CITY -- The third fugitive, who escaped custody of a federal marshal and his deputy while enroute to a Marion, Ill., prison Oct. 13, has been taken into custody.

Kraxner was killed early Monday morning after he had questioned the driver of a stolen car. About six hours later Merola was taken into custody.

Merola allegedly shot an East St. Louis policeman, Jack McNutt, Oct. 13 as he escaped from a federal marshal in the East St. Louis courthouse. He was being taken to the federal prison at Marion, Ill., after his conviction on charges of theft, assault and assaulting a federal officer.

Police Chief Doug Seneker of suburban Riverside, said he hopes he can question Merola to see if he has any connection with the fatal shooting Oct. 19, of Michael K. Rodeberg, 20-year-old Army private home on leave. Rodeberg was shot in the front yard of his parents' home by a man who then drove away in the soldier's car.

Independence police said they would confer with the Jackson County prosecutor about placing the Kraxner murder case before the county grand jury.

Merola escaped federal marshal John Bailey Jr. and McNutt in the company of Earl Rogers, 23, and Gary Rogers, 23.

The Rogers men are not related. They were apprehended by police near Albuquerque, N. M. Oct. 18.

The 1965 Cadillac the trio escaped in was recovered the next day two miles southeast on Benton on the Dewey Hagar farm. It had been concealed at the edge of a bean field.

Six U.S. Soldiers Killed

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — North Korean troops ambushed and killed six American soldiers and one South Korean below the armistice line before dawn today while President and Mrs. Johnson slept 30 miles away.

The incident was the gravest involving Americans since the Korean War ended in 1953. It occurred eight hours before Johnson left Korea for the United States.

In Anchorage, Alaska, the traveling White House said Johnson has asked for a complete report on the incident from Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commander of the U.S. 8th Army in Korea and of the United Nations Command there. The President met with Bonesteel Tuesday when he visited American and South Korean troops during his stay in South Korea.

There was one survivor, an American, from the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division patrol. Wounded by a grenade but reported in good condition, he said the attackers wore North Ko-

Council Tours BPW Facilities

Sikeston city councilmen were given a tour of the board of public works steam plant facilities on North West St. Wednesday afternoon.

Purpose of the tour was to view latest equipment installed.

The addition of the transformer will increase the amount of power that may be handled at the plant.

It provides the plant with more electrical capacity, more reliable capacity and at a reduced rate, Herbert R. Phelps, consulting engineer for the Board of Public Works, said.

The city can now supply industry with more power if they want it, he added.

Within the next two months two circuits handling 13,800 volts each will be connected at the steam plant site. This will improve the distribution to the city of Sikeston, Phelps said.

The city presently has two similar circuits in operation plus eight 2,400 volt circuits serving customers.

The group touring the facilities was shown a 2,000 kilowatt peaking unit, used normally only during heavy load periods in the summer.

Driver Injured

CHARLESTON -- Robert Berry, 46, of Essex was injured when his speeding car missed a curve, went into a ditch and hit a telephone pole on U.S. highway 62, four miles east of Charleston Monday at 11:30 p.m., the highway patrol reported.

He was taken to Missouri Delta Community hospital at Sikeston with a forehead cut and possible hip injury.

Berry was charged with careless and reckless driving and speeding.

LILBOURN -- A 16-year-old Lilbourn boy was turned over to the juvenile officer at New Madrid following a car-truck collision on Route D at 7:40 a.m. today.

The highway patrol said the youth drove his car across the highway from 5th street into the path of a pickup truck driven by Mearl Pfeffer of Lilbourn route 1.

Damage to the car was estimated at $400 and damage to the truck was estimated at $150.

Johnson Vows Firm Stand in Asia

By FRANK CORMIER

ANCHORAGE, Alaska AP -- President Johnson returned to American soil Tuesday night and promised that the United States will take a firm anti-Communist stand in Asia--"and you can put it in your pipe and smoke it."

He made the statement in reference to the ambush of six American soldiers and a South Korean by North Korean troops in Korea eight hours before Johnson left Seoul for the United States. The President was told about the incident as he boarded the plane in Seoul.

In Anchorage, the traveling White House said the President asked for a Compete report of the incident from the commander of the U.S. 8th Army in Korea.

Returning from a seven-nation tour, Johnson was greeted by several thousand residents of Alaska's largest city in a steady, but gentle, midnight rain.

The President told welcomers at Elmendorf Air Force Base, four miles from town, that United States is taking a stand in Asia—and Viet Nam—and "that stand is going to come true."

Although the dampened late-hour crowd was the smallest of his 31,000-mile journey around the Pacific, the President took his auto microphone in hand to urge repeatedly that his greeters "move back a yard there" and let the motorcade proceed.

Viet Nam was the theme of his impromptu speech in Anchorage, too. He said the United States won't permit the Communists to take over South Viet Nam—that if they succeeded there, "they might be in Dutch Harbor tomorrow."

The President said he did not believe in ignoring a fire "until it gets to your front yard."

He emphasized again that his aim to get Communist North Viet Nam to the negotiating table, "and the sooner they realize it, the better they'll be."

The presidential jet set down at Elmendorf Air Force Base, five miles out of the city, at 11:36 p.m. AST — 4:36 a.m. EST.

In remarks prepared for an early morning gathering in Anchorage, Johnson summed up his arduous trip, saying:

"It has been the most rewarding, the most thrilling, the most encouraging journey of my life. I believe it may also have been the most important and the most historic."

Recalling that he had said on departing Washington that he expected no miracles at the Manila conference of Viet Nam

Family Turns Over JFK X-rays

WASHINGTON (AP) — The family of President John F. Kennedy has turned over to the National Archives pictures taken in connection with the autopsy performed after his assassination — pictures that doctors say add nothing to evidence already on record.

The 65 pictures and X-rays, which were not examined by the Warren Commission during its investigation, were presented to the archives under conditions which virtually preclude public viewing of them for many years.

A Justice Department spokesman said Tuesday night the department had asked for the 14 X-rays, 25 black-and-white negatives and 26 color transparencies to complete the government's collection of assassination material for the historical record.

The two Navy pathologists who performed the autopsy the night after Kennedy was shot said in interviews Tuesday night the X-rays and pictures merely back up testimony they gave the commission. And one of them said the photographs were intended for use in the trial of Lee Harvey Oswald, named by the commission as Kennedy's assassin.

"These photos are nothing more than supportive evidence for information we presented to the Warren Commission," said Cmdr. J. Thornton Boswell, who assisted Cmdr. James J. Humes in the autopsy. "All they would do would be to document what we discussed. I am sure the photographs would corroborate our testimony."

Boswell added: "They were medical-legal photographs taken for presentation in court at the Oswald trial. Oswald was still alive at the time of the autopsy."

Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963. Two days later, Oswald was shot and killed by Jack Ruby in a corridor of the Dallas jail.

Humes said commission members had asked whether the pictures were needed in connection with the pathologists' testimony. "We felt they were not," he said.

Asked whether the pictures disclosed anything not covered in the testimony, Humes said, "I would not have testified before the commission the way I did if I felt there was anything different about them."

Some recent criticism of the commission focused on the fact that the commission did not see autopsy pictures.

One commission member, Allen W. Dulles, said he didn't recall the circumstances surrounding the commission's decision not to examine the pictures.

The Justice Department spokesman said he did not know how the X-rays and pictures came into the possession of the Kennedy family.

The spokesman said the pictures, authenticated by Humes and Boswell, are the only ones of the autopsy known to exist.

A letter dated Oct. 29 and signed by Burke Marshall, representing the Kennedy family, gave the government possession of the pictures. Marshall, former head of the Justice Department's civil rights division, now lives in New York City and has handled other matters for the Kennedy family.

The letter also gave the government possession of the clothes Kennedy was wearing when he was shot. Restrictions on viewing these are somewhat less stringent than for the pictures.

Earlier Tuesday, the government took legal title to the great mass of evidence considered by the commission. The evidence, including the rifle designated by the commission as the death weapon, was ordered preserved in the archives.

Under conditions laid down by the Kennedy family, there will be no nonofficial access to the autopsy pictures without the consent of the family for the first five years. This does not apply to official government investigating groups, which may see the pictures at any time.

Ten Firefighters Die

SYLMAR, CALIF. (AP) - A blast of flames sweeping up a steep hillside snuffed out the lives of 10 firefighters in a crew of 25 battling one of four brush fires in Angeles National Forest.

The men were veterans, known as El Cariso Hotshots from Riverside County who had specialized in combatting the hottest of forest fires in Montana, Idaho, California and Oregon.

VANDALS destroyed a large portion of the wood flooring on an abandoned bridge over drainage ditch number one Monday night near the sewage plant. The Halloween pranksters piled brush on the bridge and set it afire. The blaze penetrated the two by 12 inch timber. Travel had been halted by a barricade on the west approach by a ditch dug across the road on the other side. The span was called the waterfall bridge because of the small falls in upper right, where water from the sewage plant empties into a ditch.

The President told welcomers at Elmendorf Air Force Base, four miles from town, that United States is taking a stand in Asia—and Viet Nam—and "that stand is going to come true."

Although the dampened late-hour crowd was the smallest of his 31,000-mile journey around the Pacific, the President took his auto microphone in hand to urge repeatedly that his greeters "move back a yard there" and let the motorcade proceed.

Viet Nam was the theme of his impromptu speech in Anchorage, too. He said the United States won't permit the Communists to take over South Viet Nam—that if they succeeded there, "they might be in Dutch Harbor tomorrow."

The President said he did not believe in ignoring a fire "until it gets to your front yard."

He emphasized again that his aim to get Communist North Viet Nam to the negotiating table, "and the sooner they realize it, the better they'll be."

The presidential jet set down at Elmendorf Air Force Base, five miles out of the city, at 11:36 p.m. AST — 4:36 a.m. EST.

In remarks prepared for an early morning gathering in Anchorage, Johnson summed up his arduous trip, saying:

"It has been the most rewarding, the most thrilling, the most encouraging journey of my life. I believe it may also have been the most important and the most historic."

Recalling that he had said on departing Washington that he expected no miracles at the Manila conference of Viet Nam

Family Turns Over JFK X-rays

WASHINGTON (AP) — The family of President John F. Kennedy has turned over to the National Archives pictures taken in connection with the autopsy performed after his assassination — pictures that doctors say add nothing to evidence already on record.

The 65 pictures and X-rays, which were not examined by the Warren Commission during its investigation, were presented to the archives under conditions which virtually preclude public viewing of them for many years.

A Justice Department spokesman said Tuesday night the department had asked for the 14 X-rays, 25 black-and-white negatives and 26 color transparencies to complete the government's collection of assassination material for the historical record.

The two Navy pathologists who performed the autopsy the night after Kennedy was shot said in interviews Tuesday night the X-rays and pictures merely back up testimony they gave the commission. And one of them said the photographs were intended for use in the trial of Lee Harvey Oswald, named by the commission as Kennedy's assassin.

"These photos are nothing more than supportive evidence for information we presented to the Warren Commission," said Cmdr. J. Thornton Boswell, who assisted Cmdr. James J. Humes in the autopsy. "All they would do would be to document what we discussed. I am sure the photographs would corroborate our testimony."

Boswell added: "They were medical-legal photographs taken for presentation in court at the Oswald trial. Oswald was still alive at the time of the autopsy."

Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963. Two days later, Oswald was shot and killed by Jack Ruby in a corridor of the Dallas jail.

Humes said commission members had asked whether the pictures were needed in connection with the pathologists' testimony. "We felt they were not," he said.

Asked whether the pictures disclosed anything not covered in the testimony, Humes said, "I would not have testified before the commission the way I did if I felt there was anything different about them."

Some recent criticism of the commission focused on the fact that the commission did not see autopsy pictures.

One commission member, Allen W. Dulles, said he didn't recall the circumstances surrounding the commission's decision not to examine the pictures.

The Justice Department spokesman said he did not know how the X-rays and pictures came into the possession of the Kennedy family.

The spokesman said the pictures, authenticated by Humes and Boswell, are the only ones of the autopsy known to exist.

A letter dated Oct. 29 and signed by Burke Marshall, representing the Kennedy family, gave the government possession of the pictures. Marshall, former head of the Justice Department's civil rights division, now lives in New York City and has handled other matters for the Kennedy family.

The letter also gave the government possession of the clothes Kennedy was wearing when he was shot. Restrictions on viewing these are somewhat less stringent than for the pictures.

Earlier Tuesday, the government took legal title to the great mass of evidence considered by the commission. The evidence, including the rifle designated by the commission as the death weapon, was ordered preserved in the archives.

Under conditions laid down by the Kennedy family, there will be no nonofficial access to the autopsy pictures without the consent of the family for the first five years. This does not apply to official government investigating groups, which may see the pictures at any time.

Ten Firefighters Die

SYLMAR, CALIF. (AP) - A blast of flames sweeping up a steep hillside snuffed out the lives of 10 firefighters in a crew of 25 battling one of four brush fires in Angeles National Forest.

The men were veterans, known as El Cariso Hotshots from Riverside County who had specialized in combatting the hottest of forest fires in Montana, Idaho, California and Oregon.

VANDALS destroyed a large portion of the wood flooring on an abandoned bridge over drainage ditch number one Monday night near the sewage plant. The Halloween pranksters piled brush on the bridge and set it afire. The blaze penetrated the two by 12 inch timber. Travel had been halted by a barricade on the west approach by a ditch dug across the road on the other side. The span was called the waterfall bridge because of the small falls in upper right, where water from the sewage plant empties into a ditch.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

NEW YORK GOVERNOR SPOKE OUT (OF TURN)

Here is an interesting letter Dick McDougal found that proves there were "stick-in-the-muds" back in 1829. Thanks, Dick, for the collector's item.

Albany, N. Y.
Jan. 1, 1829

President Andrew Jackson
Washington, D. C.
Dear Mr. President:

The canal system of this country is being threatened by the spread of a new form of transportation known as "railroads." The federal government must preserve the canals for the following reasons:

ONE - If canal boats are supplanted by "railroads" serious unemployment will result. Captains, cooks, drivers, hostlers, repairmen and lock tenders will be left without means of livelihood, not to mention the numerous farmers now employed in growing hay for horses.

TWO - Boat builders would suffer and towline, whip and harness makers would be left destitute.

THREE - Canal boats are absolutely essential to the defense of the United States. In event of the expected trouble with England, the Erie Canal would be the only means by which we could ever move the supplies so vital to waging modern war.

For the above mentioned reasons the government should create an Interstate Commerce Commission to protect the American people from the evils of "railroads" and to preserve the canals for posterity.

As you know, Mr. President, "railroad" carriages are pulled at the enormous speed of 15 miles per hour by "engines," which in addition to endangering life and limb of passengers, roar and snort their way through the countryside, setting fire to the crops, scaring the livestock and frightening women and children. The Almighty certainly never intended that people should travel at such breakneck speed.

Respectfully yours,
Martin Van Burean
Governor of New York

The heritage every generation hopes to give the next one should be a better opportunity, a more fertile land, hope and encouragement in abundance, not an idle, easy existence without challenge.

The stewardship of this generation hasn't been good in this respect.

Conservation practices are growing but it is doubtful if they are keeping pace with the waste and spoilage, the overtilling of soil without replacing lost nutrients, the commerical exploitation of scenic wonders, the cutting away of the California redwoods, the appropriation by industry of the Great Lake sand dunes, the growing pollution of water and air.

Opportunities are diminished by the pressures being exerted in the business world. Competition is being reduced by a combination of federal government regulation, union pressures, high wage levels imposed by government. Emphasis on automation, efficiency and economy which often is beyond the means of a small operator, economies achieved by group buying and promotion. Only the more heavily capitalized, the more able and more imaginative free enterprisers, can survive against such an onslaught of uneven odds.

As government intrudes more and more in business operations, the number of opportunities for free enterprises diminish.

America is more and more becoming a country in which the young seek opportunity working either for government or big industry and less and less a nation of those who seek to wrest a livelihood by trying to fly alone in the business world.

The dependency on government is producing a crop of young people, who aren't seeking opportunity but security. They ask about the fringe benefits, the security that a job offers, a blueprint of future wage increases rather than a chance to show what they can do for an enterprise. They often shun responsibility.

They really can't be blamed for this. It isn't their fault either. Their elders by counsel and example have encouraged them to take this course.

These are the values that the present generation has handed down to them.

This is their legacy.

The boss can take the risks.

After all, isn't that his business?

MISSOURI TAX LOAD AT $223 PER RESIDENT

Missouri, which had the lowest combination of state and local taxes in the Plains States eight years ago, has had the sharpest increase in such taxes on a population basis in the seven states, Tax Foundation, Inc. said today.

The increase in Missouri state and local tax collections since fiscal 1957 is equal to a $91 or 69 percent increase for every resident of the State, the Foundation said.

Total state and local tax collections in fiscal 1965 were over $1 billion or $223 per resident; in fiscal 1957 the total was $554 million or $132 per capita. The 69 percent increase in taxes compares with a 39 percent increase in personal income per capita in the State over the period, the Foundation said.

State and local taxes in Missouri are $50 per person less than in Kansas and $76 less than in Minnesota, where the $299 per person ratio is the highest among the Plains States, according to fiscal 1965 collections.

Nationally, Missouri's per capita tax load is $43 below the U. S. average of $266 based on rates ranging from a low of $159 in Arkansas to a high of $379 per person in California.

State and local tax collections have doubled since fiscal 1957, according to the Foundation. From $28.8 billion then the total increased to $51.9 billion in fiscal 1965. The Bureau of the Census estimates total collections increased 10 percent during fiscal 1966 to $56.9 billion, although the official state-by-state collection figures will not be available until next summer. A recent Tax Foundation survey showed new and increased taxes adopted by state legislatures this year alone will add more than a half billion dollars annually to the total.

The following table, prepared in connection with Tax Foundation's forthcoming 14th edition of its biennial handbook, Facts and Figures on Government Finance, is based on the latest available statistics to show how the Plains States compare:

	State and Local Tax Collections Per Capita (Fiscal Years)		% Incr.
Nebraska	$220	$144	52
Missouri	223	132	69

NEW YORK AP -- Doctors are always telling bored middleaged and elderly people, "What you need is a good hobby. It will add zest to your years."

The trouble with most people, however, is that they don't really want to acquire a good hobby. All they want to do is go on following their bad hobbies--such as eating, drinking, gossipping and chasing members of the opposite sex.

But if your doctor has forbidden you such pleasant pastimes, there are still other ways you can make your declining years endurable.

Here, for example, is an offhand list of unusual hobbies, any one of which may give you more fun than collecting stamps or sticking pins in expired butterflies — and may also raise the eyebrows of your neighbors:

Collecting memorable remarks made at cocktail parties. This is a real test of ingenuity. Literary scholars have estimated that there is an average of only one memorable remark made for every 10,000 cocktail parties in America, so you have to keep your ears open all the time in order to build much of a collection.

Knitting sweaters for squirrels in the park. Turning out the sweaters is fairly easy, but getting the little rascals to wear them — particularly during the summer months — will test all your powers of persuasion.

Learning to eat spinach. This is a test of character. But if you start slowly, nibbling only a few leaves a day, before you know it you will be able to put down from 10 to 25 pounds of spinach a week. You'll wind up with so much iron in your system you'll clank when you walk.

Keeping the spirit of Santa Claus alive all year round. Pick the biggest elm in your backyard, and starting on Jan. 1 clip all your old greeting cards to its limbs. Then tie on all the beer cans, toothpaste tubes and deodorant bottles you empty during the year. By mid-December you'll have the most colorful Christmas tree in town. People will journey miles to see it — including, probably, the local chief of police.

Watching teen-agers. While going to the zoo has its charms, there is no better way to study modern animal life in the raw than simply sitting and watching the antics of teen-agers. Don't worry for fear that your staring will annoy them. It won't. Teen-agers are unaware that adults over 40 exist.

There are any number of other inspiring hobbies available, from attending the opening of new delicatessens to courting rich widows or sending CARE packages to your favorite congressman.

But no hobby is better for avoiding boredom and enriching your artery-hardening years than the soul-satisfying hobby of giving free advice to others. But I'll thank you to please pick another hobby.

As you can see, that one is my racket.

WHY NOT?

The constant drive to have the federal government take over more and more of the affairs of individuals and businesses is frightening. One of the most disturbing manifestations of this disposition to control is the growing agitation for laws to "protect" the consumer from the ravages of merchants and manufacturers. If legislation is ever passed straitjacketing the marketplace and standardizing packaging, labeling, grading and merchandising methods, two results are certain: Consumers will no longer be able to control by their purchases the kind of goods they want, and the federal agency setting out to administer the legislation will be the biggest one in the government.

Commenting on this new inroad on personal affairs, James M. Patterson, director of public relations of a major oil company, says government officials are underestimating the intelligence of American women when they seek to advise homemakers on how to shop for bargains. He emphasized that, "If our state and federal governments were as good at holding down the cost of government as our women are at holding down the controllable items in the family, budget, we'd have very little to worry about." It can be added that the retailers themselves are the housewives' greatest allies in seeking out bargains -- that's an essential part of running a successful store. Increased effort is being directed to encouraging bargain buying.

Mr. Patterson points out that while the cost of living index has increased only 6.5 per cent in the last 5 years, the cost of the federal government is up 31 per cent and that of local and state government is up 48 per cent. The price of government is increasing the cost of living more than the items in the cost of living index.

"American women should demand that the cost of government be included in the cost of living index, where it can be subjected to . . . the same demands for economy and efficiency, that private individuals and corporations are subjected to." Why not?

What do today's homes look like? The NAHB Economics Department study reveals these facts:

. The one-story brick house is the most popular today.

. It very likely has a garage or carport.

. It has about 1,400 sq. ft. of space.

. It has a family room, most likely on the first floor.

. It has two bathrooms.

. More than one out of three will have a fireplace.

. About the same number will have air conditioning.

. The kitchen cabinets will be wood.

. A little over one-half the windows will be of aluminum, about evenly divided among double hung and sliders.

. Ranges and ovens will be built in.

. About half will have dishwashers and garbage disposers included in the price.

. Eight out of ten will use gas heat.

. Eight out of ten will use a public sewer system.

. These "typical" houses will be built on fully-developed lots of about 9,720 sq. ft. and will sell for $19,575.

THE MONEY PIPELINE

Informed Americans are well aware that the highly publicized "administrative budget" of the federal government each year by no means accounts for all the tax money available for federal spending. It does not include, for instance, the vast sums collected and spent each year for social security, or for the interstate highway program.

Even when all tax collections by the federal government for any purpose are added up, along with all current spending, the full story of the gigantic concentration of wealth in the federal treasury is not told. There is also the backlog of money already authorized for spending, but not yet spent. Federal bureaucrats can spend it whenever they are ready. Often, new appropriations simply add to the backlog.

Information is not easily obtained on the spending backlog, or the "money pipeline" as it is sometimes called. Naturally, federal officials are very reluctant to let out the disturbing truth. But by persistent inquiries, Senator Karl Mundt of South Dakota was recently able to get this information from the Budget Bureau.

The Budget Bureau figures showed 130 "revolving funds", many of which have accumulated spending authorizations, 78 permanent appropriations already authorized indefinitely by Congress, and 16 "backdoor spending" arrangements. Over $40 billion is already authorized for spending through these channels. In addition, over $47 billion has been authorized without a requirement for annual approval by Congress.

The grand total, to be exact, is $88.4 billion in the money pipeline, a sum almost as great as our annual administrative budget, over which Congress and the people now have no control whatsoever.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The Liberty Lobby, whose founder has described the Nazi collapse as the "defeat to Europe and America" and which is trying to elect right - wing candidates around the nation, went into federal court last week to try to stop publication of this column.

Specifically, Harvey Bolton, attorney for the Liberty Lobby, appeared before U.S. District Judge Leonard P. Walsh and asked for a restraining order against publication of Liberty Lobby documents on the ground that they were illegally received.

Mrs. Betty Jean Murphy, representing us, argued the first amendment and the right to inform the public regarding un-American activities.

"Your honor, you have to weigh the first amendment against property rights," replied Bolton. "If they continue to publish the documents, then the cat is out of the bag. They are the property of the plaintiff and not intended for publication."

Until this has been decided, we will continue to report on the amazing operation of a lobby which, located only a few blocks from the Capitol, has distributed some 20 million pieces of literature and has used various congressmen as a front for its extremist activities.

"STATESMEN OF THE REPUBLIC"

They have participated in Liberty Lobby rallies with right - wing radicals, promoted the lobby in speeches and letters, introduced material prepared by the lobby into the congressional record, and swallowed its un - American propaganda.

California's Utt even solicited subscriptions to the lobby's propaganda sheet "Liberty Letter." He signed an appeal, addressed to "Dear Patriot," which was mailed out to 100,000 people.

"Liberty Lobby," he wrote, "consistently works in the halls of congress to oppose the international socialist takeover. Its 50,000 conservative activists form a letter-writing brigade which has already made its influence felt in several crucial votes.

"That is why I am writing you, because unless you and your conservative friends are in touch already with Liberty Lobby, you are missing a great opportunity to make your personal influence felt where and when it will do the most good.

"I strongly urge you to send in your subscription to Liberty Lobby's legislative report, Liberty Letter, without delay," appealed the congressman from California. "The cost? Only one dollar per year! You can also subscribe for as many friends as you desire at the same low price."

PROMOTING THE LOBBY

Two other congressmen -- Otto E. Passman, D-La., and Albert W. Watson, R- S. C. -- also signed promotion letters for Liberty Lobby.

"Those of us who are pledged to responsible government," wrote Passman, "need the backing of hundreds of thousands of concerned citizens at the grass roots all over America. . .

"This is why I urge you to keep closely informed of important legislation pending in congress. The monthly legislative report published by Liberty Lobby is one way to do this."

Declared South Carolina's Watson: "As it becomes clear that this administration will not willingly enlighten the people, they must therefore enlighten themselves. . . A good way to keep abreast of these perilous times on Capitol Hill is by subscribing to the regular legislative report, Liberty Letter."

These congressmen should have been thoroughly familiar with the Liberty Lobby's activities because its chairman, Curtis Dall, sued this column for $2 million for describing his senate testimony as anti-semitic. We proved the charge. The suit was well publicized.

As another money - making scheme, Liberty Lobby persuaded a few legislators in 1964 to record statements for a smear recording, "LBJ: An Expose," which was offered to everyone contributing over $5.

"Now for the first time," offered a Liberty Lobby circular, "the story of LBJ is available in words and music that you can listen to in your own living room."

At the bottom of the circular was a coupon on which the contributor could mark any amount from $5 to $1,000.

At Liberty Lobby's right-wing rallies, members of congress have mingled with some of the nation's most notorious rabble rousers. The master of ceremonies at a May 2, 1964, rally, for example, was the Rev. Kenneth Goff, who defected from the Communists in 1939 and became active in anti - semitic causes.

He was associated with the late Conde McGinley whose activities were described by the House un - American Activities Committee as "subversion from the extreme right."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Billion Dollar World's Fair Was Shaken By Tiny Cosa Nostra Laborers' Local.

NEW YORK - In mobsters' jargon the word for a heavy flow of secret cash is "action." The heavier the flow, the bigger the number of Cosa Nostra families which try to cut in on a "piece of the action."

There was plenty such "action" in and around the billion dollar construction "baby" known as the 1964 World's Fair. It cost the public and businessmen some $800 million to lay out and construct the fair site and the exhibits and pavilions. Another $125 million went for arterial highways.

Labor costs ran into hundreds of millions. And one small union, in which are at least eight of the Mafia's major heads, controlled at least 25 per cent of all the work on the fair.

That union, Local 13 of the Laborers' International, really did hit the glory road. Not only did it have jurisdiction over all the common laborers and mason tenders and bricklayers' helpers at the fair, but over the whole complex which now includes the Mets' Shea stadium. Furthermore, since this complex now is the geographical and population center of this massive city, there also were hundreds of millions of dollars worth of other residential and mercantile construction.

Contractors groaned and stayed silent as they did business with the local which the police say bluntly is Mafia dominated.

And that is a euphemism. Call the roll or run a well-attended membership meeting and you would get the tops in Cosa Nostra's high society.

Carrying a union card, for example was Carmine Tramunti, buddy of the acidy extortioner Johnny Dio; the comrade of high-voltage Tony Ducks Corallo; and associate of the most manicured and diamond-studded Mafia chiefs. Like whom? Like the deathly sick Tommy (Three Finger Brown) Luchese. As Three Finger became more mortally ill, Traumunti became sort of an executive secretary.

Tramunti, alias Mr. Gribs, made it good as a caporegime (captain) in the Luchese Cosa Nostra operation. One of his fellow union members at the time was and is the oft-arrested Joe (Stutz) Tortorici. He is one of the Vito Genovese genre. There were also some of Carlo Gambino's boys. But he has another union so he did not mix too much.

Thus, in this small local of 800 carefully selected members which could have disrupted -- or threatened to paralyze -- construction of the billion dollar World's Fair -- are the "in" men of the top Cosa Nostra families -- Genovese's, Gambino's and Luchese's. It was all well overseen by aides and relatives of the aging don, Mike Miranda, caretaker ruler of the Mafia's now imprisoned Mr. Big, Vito Genovese.

This crowd had everything going for them. Just ask any World's Fair contractor about "no shows" on the ghost payrolls, pressures to use the Local 13 boss's own trucking operation, and the easily manipulated pay scales.

They were the power behind the union chief Basil "Bobby" Cervone, himself a buddy of Luchese.

Until gently "removed" Cervone did very well -- what with driving a $30,000 Rolls Royce, running three mansions and a network of businesses.

Of course, his personal social club, right up close to the union headquarters, should not be overlooked. It was a right good idea to join it and pay dues and play games and lose money while at play -- if you wanted to join the union, or stay in it, or get a well-paying job.

This is an ancient pursuit -- the operation of social clubs by some construction union chief -- as an extracurricular activity. Luchese had some. Gambino, too.

Along with influence in the union, such devoted union members as Tramunti worked picket lines with ex-convict Johnny Dio or took orders from Tony Ducks -- who ran six other locals from time to time.

There were floating crap games, vice (a clean word for some mighty loathsome business) and muscle contracts.

Yet this local has been under investigation for years. Its books were picked up first by the Labor Dept. last April. Certainly it is reasonable to assume that the local's parent organization, the Laborer's International Union of North America, which recently ran a most rhetorical convention in St. Louis, must have heard some whispers at least.

Still the national office did little until it had to move. And then only quietly. And ineffectively.

Why?

Is this kind of unionism a law unto itself? Is it untouchable? Perhaps it is -- right across the land.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

NEW YORK GOVERNOR SPOKE OUT (OF TURN)

He has an interesting letter Dick McDougal found that proves there were "stick-in-the-muds" back in 1829. Thanks, Dick, for the collector's item.

Albany, N. Y.
Jan. 1, 1829

President Andrew Jackson
Washington, D. C.
Dear Mr. President:

The canal system of this country is being threatened by the spread of a new form of transportation known as "railroads." The federal government must preserve the canals for the following reasons:

ONE - If canal boats are supplanted by "railroads" serious unemployment will result. Captains, cooks, drivers, hostlers, repairmen and lock tenders will be left without means of livelihood, not to mention the numerous farmers now employed in growing hay for horses.

TWO - Boat builders would suffer and towline, whip and harness makers would be left destitute.

THREE - Canal boats are absolutely essential to the defense of the United States. In event of the expected trouble with England, the Erie Canal would be the only means by which we could ever move the supplies so vital to waging modern war.

For the above mentioned reasons the government should create an Interstate Commerce Commission to protect the American people from the evils of "railroads" and to preserve the canals for posterity.

As you know, Mr. President, "railroad" carriages are pulled at the enormous speed of 15 miles per hour by "engines," which in addition to endangering life and limb of passengers, roar and snort their way through the countryside, setting fire to the crops, scaring the livestock and frightening women and children. The Almighty certainly never intended that people should travel at such breakneck speed.

Respectfully yours,
Martin Van Burean
Governor of New York

The heritage every generation hopes to give the next one should be a better opportunity, a more fertile land, hope and encouragement in abundance, not an idle, easy existence without challenge.

The stewardship of this generation hasn't been good in this respect.

Conservation practices are growing but it is doubtful if they are keeping pace with the waste and spoilage, the overtilling of soil without replacing lost nutrients, the commerical exploitation of scenic wonders, the cutting away of the California redwoods, the appropriation by industry of the Great Lake sand dunes, the growing pollution of water and air.

Opportunities are diminished by the pressures being exerted in the business world. Competition is being reduced by a combination of federal government regulation, union pressures, high wage levels imposed by government. Emphasis on automation, efficiency and economy which often is beyond the means of a small operator, economies achieved by group buying and promotion. Only the more heavily capitalized, the more able and more imaginative free enterprisers, can survive against such an onslaught of uneven odds.

As government intrudes more and more in business operations, the number of opportunities for free enterprises diminish.

America is more and more becoming a country in which the young seek opportunity working either for government or big industry and less and less a nation of those who seek to wrest a livelihood by trying to fly alone in the business world.

The dependency on government is producing a crop of young people, who aren't seeking opportunity but security. They ask about the fringe benefits, the security that a job offers, a blueprint of future wage increases rather than a chance to show what they can do for an enterprise. They often shun responsibility.

They really can't be blamed for this. It isn't their fault either. Their elders by counsel and example have encouraged them to take this course.

These are the values that the present generation has handed down to them.

This is their legacy.

The boss can take the risks.

After all, isn't that his business?

MISSOURI TAX LOAD AT $223 PER RESIDENT

Missouri, which had the lowest combination of state and local taxes in the Plains States eight years ago, has had the sharpest increase in such taxes on a population basis in the seven states, Tax Foundation, Inc. said today.

The increase in Missouri state and local tax collections since fiscal 1957 is equal to a $91 or 69 percent increase for every resident of the State, the Foundation said.

Total state and local tax collections in fiscal 1965 were over $1 billion or $223 per resident; in fiscal 1957 the total was $554 million or $132 per capita. The 69 percent increase in taxes compares with a 39 percent increase in personal income per capita in the State over the period, the Foundation said.

State and local taxes in Missouri are $50 per person less than in Kansas and $76 less than in Minnesota, where the $299 per person ratio is the highest among the Plains States, according to fiscal 1965 collections.

Nationally, Missouri's per capita tax load is $43 below the U. S. average of $266 based on rates ranging from a low of $159 in Arkansas to a high of $379 per person in California.

State and local tax collections have doubled since fiscal 1957, according to the Foundation. From $28.8 billion then the total increased to $51.9 billion in fiscal 1965. The Bureau of the Census estimates total collections increased 10 percent during fiscal 1966 to $56.9 billion, although the official state-by-state collection figures will not be available until next summer. A recent Tax Foundation survey showed new and increased taxes adopted by state legislatures this year alone will add more than a half billion dollars annually to the total.

The following table, prepared in connection with Tax Foundation's forthcoming 14th edition of its biennial handbook, Facts and Figures on Government Finance, is based on the latest available statistics to show how the Plains States compare:

	State and Local Tax Collections Per Capita (Fiscal Years) 1965	1957	% Incr.
Nebraska	$220	$144	52
Missouri	223	132	69
S. Dakota	241	169	42
N. Dakota	248	176	41
Kansas	273	173	58
Iowa	276	180	53
Minnesota	299	183	63
U.S. Avr.	266	169	57

	Personal Income Per Capita (Calendar Years) 1965	1957	% Incr.
Nebraska	$2,629	$1,876	40
Missouri	2,663	1,922	39
S. Dakota	2,213	1,604	38
N. Dakota	2,279	1,479	54
Kansas	2,639	1,883	40

Business men often wonder how their office telephones are answered for them in their absence. This happened at a swank Madison Avenue Advertising Agency to a top executive. One day his sister-in-law phoned him and was informed by a sweet, young voice that Mr. A. was away from his desk. The sister-in-law then asked if he would be away very long.

"No, I don't think so," said the secretary, "he didn't take the newspaper with him.

At the wedding between two bop musicians, the preacher read the marriage contract, then asked the couple, "do you dig this bit?" Both nodded and the minister proceeded with the ceremony asking the bride, "Chick, do you dig this cat?" She replied, "Crazy!" He turned to the bridegroom, "Cat, love this chick?" "Mostest," the man answered. The minister then joined their hands and pronounced over them, "Make it, man!"

WHY NOT?

The constant drive to have the federal government take over more and more of the affairs of individuals and businesses is frightening. One of the most disturbing manifestations of this disposition to control is the growing agitation for laws to "protect" the consumer from the ravages of merchants and manufacturers. If legislation is ever passed straitjacketing the marketplace and standardizing packaging, labeling, grading and merchandising methods, two results are certain: Consumers will no longer be able to control by their purchases the kind of goods they want, and the federal agency setting out to administer the legislation will be the biggest one in the government.

Commenting on this new inroad on personal affairs, James M. Patterson, director of public relations of a major oil company, says government officials are underestimating the intelligence of American women when they seek to advise homemakers on how to shop for bargains. He emphasized that, "If our state and federal governments were as good at holding down the cost of government as our women are at holding down the controllable items in the family, budget, we'd have very little to worry about." It can be added that the retailers themselves are the housewives' greatest allies in seeking out bargains -- that's an essential part of running a successful store. Increased effort is being directed to encouraging bargain buying.

Mr. Patterson points out that while the cost of living index has increased only 6.5 per cent in the last 5 years, the cost of the federal government is up 31 per cent and that of local and state government is up 48 per cent. The price of government is increasing the cost of living more than the items in the cost of living index.

"American women should demand that the cost of government be included in the cost of living index, where it can be subjected to . . . the same demands for economy and efficiency, that private individuals and corporations are subjected to." Why not?

THE TYPICAL U.S. HOME

What do today's homes look like? The NAHB Economics Department study reveals these facts:

. The one-story brick house is the most popular today.
. It very likely has a garage or carport.
. It has about 1,400 sq. ft. of space.
. It has a family room, most likely on the first floor.
. It has two bathrooms.
. More than one out of three will have a fireplace.
. About the same number will have air conditioning.
. The kitchen cabinets will be wood.
. A little over one-half the windows will be of aluminum, about evenly divided among double hung and sliders.
. Ranges and ovens will be built in.
. About half will have dishwashers and garbage disposers included in the price.
. Eight out of ten will use gas heat.
. Eight out of ten will use a public sewer system.
. These "typical" houses will be built on fully-developed lots of about 9,720 sq. ft. and will sell for $19,575.

THE MONEY PIPELINE

Informed Americans are well aware that the highly publicized "administrative budget" of the federal government each year by no means accounts for all the tax money available for federal spending. It does not include, for instance, the vast sums collected and spent each year for social security, or for the interstate highway program.

Even when all tax collections by the federal government for any purpose are added up, along with all current spending, the full story of the gigantic concentration of wealth in the federal treasury is not told. There is also the backlog of money already authorized for spending, but not yet spent. Federal bureaucrats can spend it whenever they are ready. Often, new appropriations simply add to the backlog.

Information is not easily obtained on the spending backlog, or the "money pipeline" as it is sometimes called. Naturally, federal officials are very reluctant to let out the disturbing truth. But by persistent inquiries, Senator Karl Mundt of South Dakota was recently able to get this information from the Budget Bureau.

The Budget Bureau figures showed 130 "revolving funds", many of which have accumulated spending authorizations, 78 permanent appropriations already authorized indefinitely by Congress, and 16 "backdoor spending" arrangements. Over $40 billion is already authorized for spending through these channels. In addition, over $47 billion has been authorized without a requirement for annual approval by Congress.

The grand total, to be exact, is $88.4 billion in the money pipeline, a sum almost as great as our annual administrative budget, over which Congress and the people now have no control whatsoever.

NEW YORK AP -- Doctors are always telling bored middleaged and elderly people, "What you need is a good hobby. It will add zest to your years."

The trouble with most people, however, is that they don't really want to acquire a good hobby. All they want to do is go on following their bad hobbies--such as eating, drinking, gossipping and chasing members of the opposite sex.

But if your doctor has forbidden you such pleasant pastimes, there are still other ways you can make your declining years endurable.

Here, for example, is an offhand list of unusual hobbies, any one of which may give you more fun than collecting stamps or sticking pins in expired butterflies — and may also raise the eyebrows of your neighbors:

Collecting memorable remarks made at cocktail parties. This is a real test of ingenuity. Literary scholars have estimated that there is an average of only one memorable remark made for every 10,000 cocktail parties in America, so you have to keep your ears open all the time in order to build much of a collection.

Knitting sweaters for squirrels in the park. Turning out the sweaters is fairly easy, but getting the little rascals to wear them — particularly during the summer months — will test all your powers of persuasion.

Learning to eat spinach. This is a test of character. But if you start slowly, nibbling only a few leaves a day, before you know it you will be able to put down from 10 to 25 pounds of spinach a week. You'll wind up with so much iron in your system you'll clank when you walk.

Keeping the spirit of Santa Claus alive all year round. Pick the biggest elm in your backyard, and starting on Jan. 1 clip all your old greeting cards to its limbs. Then tie on all the beer cans, toothpaste tubes and deodorant bottles you empty during the year. By mid-December you'll have the most colorful Christmas tree in town. People will journey miles to see it — including, probably, the local chief of police.

Watching teen-agers. While going to the zoo has its charms, there is no better way to study modern animal life in the raw than simply sitting and watching the antics of teen-agers. Don't worry for fear that your staring will annoy them. It won't. Teen-agers are unaware that adults over 40 exist.

There are any number of other inspiring hobbies available, from attending the opening of new delicatessens to courting rich widows or sending CARE packages to your favorite congressman.

But no hobby is better for avoiding boredom and enriching your artery-hardening years than the soul-satisfying hobby of giving free advice to others. But I'll thank you to please pick another hobby.

As you can see, that one is my racket.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The Liberty Lobby, whose founder has described the Nazi collapse as the "defeat to Europe and America" and which is trying to elect right - wing candidates around the nation, went into federal court last week to try to stop publication of this column.

Specifically, Harvey Bolton, attorney for the Liberty Lobby, appeared before U.S. District Judge Leonard P. Walsh and asked for a restraining order against publication of Liberty Lobby documents on the ground that they were illegally received.

Mrs. Betty Jean Murphy, representing us, argued the first amendment and the right to inform the public regarding un-American activities.

"Your honor, you have to weigh the first amendment against property rights," replied Bolton. "If they continue to publish the documents, then the cat is out of the bag. They are the property of the plaintiff and not intended for publication."

Until this has been decided, we will continue to report on the amazing operation of a lobby which, located only a few blocks from the Capitol, has distributed some 20 million pieces of literature and has used various congressmen as a front for its extremist activities.

"STATESMEN OF THE REPUBLIC"

Four congressmen, for instance -- John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, Ellis Y. Berry, R-S. C., William Jennings, D-Va., Bryan Dorn, D-S. C., and James B. Utt, R-Calif. - Have accepted "Statesman of the Republic" awards from the lobby for their right - wing activities.

They have participated in Liberty Lobby rallies with right - wing radicals, promoted the lobby in speeches and letters, introduced material prepared by the lobby into the congressional record, and swallowed its un - American propaganda.

California's Utt even solicited subscriptions to the lobby's propaganda sheet "Liberty Letter." He signed an appeal, addressed to "Dear Patriot," which was mailed out to 100,000 people.

"Liberty Lobby," he wrote, "consistently works in the halls of congress to oppose the international socialist takeover. Its 50,000 conservative activists form a letter - writing brigade which has already made its influence felt in several crucial votes.

"That is why I am writing you, because unless you and your conservative friends are in touch already with Liberty Lobby, you are missing a great opportunity to make your personal influence felt where and when it will do the most good.

"I strongly urge you to send in your subscription to Liberty Lobby's legislative report, Liberty Letter, without delay," appealed the congressman from California. "The cost? Only one dollar per year! You can also subscribe for as many friends as you desire at the same low price."

PROMOTING THE LOBBY

Two other congressmen -- Otto E. Passman, D-La., and Albert W. Watson, R- S. C. -- also signed promotion letters for Liberty Lobby.

"Those of us who are pledged to responsible government," wrote Passman, "need the backing of hundreds of thousands of concerned citizens at the grass roots all over America. . .

"This is why I urge you to keep closely informed of important legislation pending in congress. The monthly legislative report published by Liberty Lobby is one way to do this."

Declared South Carolina's Watson: "As it becomes clear that this administration will not willingly enlighten the people, they must therefore enlighten themselves. . . A good way to keep abreast of these perilous times on Capitol Hill is by subscribing to the regular legislative report, Liberty Letter."

These congressmen should have been thoroughly familiar with the Liberty Lobby's activities because its chairman, Curtis Dall, sued this column for $2 million for describing his senate testimony as anti-semitic. We proved the charge. The suit was well publicized.

As another money - making scheme, Liberty Lobby persuaded a few legislators in 1964 to record statements for a smear recording, "LBJ: An Expose," which was offered to everyone contributing over $5.

"Now for the first time," offered a Liberty Lobby circular, "the story of LBJ is available in words and music that you can listen to in your own living room."

At the bottom of the circular was a coupon on which the contributor could mark any amount from $5 to $1,000.

The recording contained a mishmash of flasehoods and half truths from right - wing sources. But it also included statements from Congressman John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., ex-Congressman Stephen Derounian, R-N. Y. (now seeking a comeback). Samuel L. Devine, R-Ohio, and ex-congressman Ed Foreman, R-Tex.

At Liberty Lobby's right-wing rallies, members of congress have mingled with some of the nation's most notorious rabble rousers. The master of ceremonies at a May 2, 1964, rally, for example, was the Rev. Kenneth Goff, who defected from the Communists in 1939 and became active in anti - semitic causes.

He was associated with the late Conde McGinley whose activities were described by the House un - American Activities Committee as "subversion from the extreme right."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Billion Dollar World's Fair Was Shaken By Tiny Cosa Nostra Laborers' Local.

NEW YORK - In mobsters' jargon the word for a heavy flow of secret cash is "action." The heavier the flow, the bigger the number of Cosa Nostra families which try to cut in on a "piece of the action."

There was plenty such "action" in and around the billion dollar construction "baby" known as the 1964 World's Fair. It cost the public and businessmen some $800 million to lay out and construct the fair site and the exhibits and pavilions. Another $125 million went for arterial highways.

Labor costs ran into hundreds of millions. And one small union, in which are at least eight of the Mafia's major heads, controlled at least 25 per cent of all the work on the fair.

That union, Local 13 of the Laborers' International, really did hit the glory road. Not only did it have jurisdiction over all the common laborers and mason tenders and bricklayers' helpers at the fair, but over the whole complex which now includes the Mets' Shea stadium. Furthermore, since this complex now is the geographical and population center of this massive city, there also were hundreds of millions of dollars worth of other residential and mercantile construction.

Contractors groaned and stayed silent as they did business with the local which the police say bluntly is Mafia dominated.

And that is a euphemism. Call the roll or run a well-attended membership meeting and you would get the tops in Cosa Nostra's high society.

Carrying a union card, for example was Carmine Tramunti, buddy of the acidy extortioner Johnny Dio; the comrade of high-voltage Tony Ducks Corallo; and associate of the most manicured and diamond-studded Mafia chiefs. Like whom? Like the deathly sick Tommy (Three Finger Brown) Luchese. As Three Finger became more mortally ill, Traumunti became sort of an executive secretary.

Tramunti, alias Mr. Gribs, made it good as a caporegime (captain) in the Luchese Cosa Nostra operation. One of his fellow union members at the time was and is the oft-arrested Joe (Stutz) Tortorici. He is one of the Vito Genovese genre. There were also some of Carlo Gambino's boys. But he has another union so he did not mix too much.

Thus, in this small local of 800 carefully selected members which could have disrupted -- or threatened to paralyze -- construction of the billion dollar World's Fair -- are the "in" men of the top Cosa Nostra families -- Genovese's, Gambino's and Luchese's. It was all well overseen by aides and relatives of the aging don, Mike Miranda, caretaker ruler of the Mafia's now imprisoned Mr. Big, Vito Genovese.

This crowd had everything going for them. Just ask any World's Fair contractor about "no shows" on the ghost payrolls, pressures to use the Local 13 boss's own trucking operation, and the easily manipulated pay scales.

They were the power behind the union chief Basil "Bobby" Cervone, himself a buddy of Luchese.

Until gently "removed" Cervone did very well -- what with driving a $30,000 Rolls Royce, running three mansions and a network of businesses.

Of course, his personal social club, right up close to the union headquarters, should not be overlooked. It was a right good idea to join it and pay dues and play games and lose money while at play -- if you wanted to join the union, or stay in it, or get a well-paying job.

This is an ancient pursuit -- the operation of social clubs by some construction union chief -- as an extracurricular activity. Luchese had some. Gambino, too.

Along with influence in the union, such devoted union members as Tramunti worked picket lines with ex-convict Johnny Dio or took orders from Tony Ducks -- who ran six other locals from time to time.

There were floating crap games, vice (a clean word for some mighty loathsome business) and muscle contracts.

Yet this local has been under investigation for years. Its books were picked up first by the Labor Dept. last April. Certainly it is reasonable to assume that the local's parent organization, the Laborer's International Union of North America, which recently ran a most rhetorical convention in St. Louis, must have heard some whispers at least.

Still the national office did little until it had to move. And then only quietly. And ineffectively.

Why?

Is this kind of unionism a law unto itself? Is it untouchable? Perhaps it is -- right across the land.

Miss Oleda Schrottky

Miss Schrottky Will Speak at Scout Dinner

A Girl Scout dinner meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 17 at the American Legion Hall. Miss Oleda Schrottky of New York will speak.

This is a occasion for Girl Scout adults to meet socially. Tickets are now available and may be secured by contacting Mrs. Ray Clinton, the ticket chairman.

Miss Schrottky was born in Appleton, Wis., graduated from Lawrence College and did advanced study at the University of Minnesota and New York University. She studied with the late Dr. Samuel Curry, pioneer in teaching in the field of creative arts. She taught in the Menominee Wisconsin high school and in Mount Holyoke College after a summer with Yvette Guilbert's School of the Theatre. During her years at Mount Holyoke she spent summers with the Provincetown Players, then playing in MacDougal Alley in New York City. While at school in Boston she worked in the Y.W.C.A. of that city, where she taught speech and directed plays, and during the summer had charge of recreation for girls in industry.

She joined the National Girl Scout organization in the days of its early existence to pioneer in the field of educational drama - now called by several other names - creative dramatics or theatre arts. In this capacity her travels have been wide - teaching courses to youth leaders in organizations dedicated to giving girls and boys fun, adventure in the arts and broadening their understanding of the world in which they must live.

Partially retired now, Miss Schrottky works almost full time. These past two years she has been especially occupied speaking to civic groups, service clubs, womens' clubs and colleges. During the last 20 years she has helped 14 young people get a start in a variety of arts, music, commerical art, interior designing and acting.

She holds an honorary degree from her alma mater, is a member of Delta Gamma Fraternity, and from this organization holds the highest award for achievement in work for and with young people.

While in New York she represents her parish, St. Mary's Espiscopal church, on the Board of St. Luke's Episcopal Home for Women. She is a member of Pan Hellenic of New York City, and keeps up her interest in theatre for children.

A meat-and-potatoes supper patties: Bring to a boil 1 c. water, 1 c. milk and 1 tblsp. butter. Stir in ½ tsp. salt, 2 tblsp. instant minced onion, 1 tsp. dried parsley flakes and 1 pkg. (8 servings) instant mashed potatoes. Beat in 1 egg and 1 (12 oz.) can luncheon meat, cubed. Thin with milk until mixture is of consistency to form patties. Shape 12 patties; saute' in butter. Serve hot with sauce made by combining 2-3 c. ketchup and 1 tsp. grated horseradish. Makes six generous supper servings; two patties per serving.

Kansas Coach Makes Another Surprising Move For Nebraska

Associated Press Sports Writer

Kansas coach Jack Mitchell, the man who successfully converted John Hadl from a running halfback to a pass-run quarterback in 1960, has made another surprising move, this time designed to give the Jayhawks some scoring punch with unbeaten Nebraska on the horizon.

Hadl became a deadly passer and currenily leads the American Football League, as the leader of the San Diego Chargers.

Mitchell doesn't imagine anything so spectacular from his latest move, that of quarterback Bob Douglass, a 6-foot-3, 202-pounder, to fullback. Douglass has never played fullback, but he runs more like one on the option play than any back Kansas has. The former No. 1 fullback, Dick Bacon, is an outstanding blocker. He's still in the picture there.

At the same time, Mitchell inserted pint-sized Bill Fenton at No. 1 quarterback ahead of Dave Fouda. Douglass started at quarterback against Kansas State, after talented Bob Skahan was lost for the season at Oklahoma State. The 5-foot-9, 155-pound Fenton took over for Skahan most of last year, passed for 500 yards and ran for 214, but broke a bone in his foot in the last game and sprained an arch this fall in practice.

"Douglass is a big, strong boy and likes to knock over people," Mitchell said. "We need some speed and depth at fullback. Fenton's foot looks like it has healed. He's experienced and he can throw and execute the option well. I'm concerned only about getting him back in condition."

In the other Big Eight camps, warnings from scouts were the order of the day. Oklahoma State assistant Bob Thompson, who scouted Texas Tech., said "Tech jelled last week and we'll have to come up with a great effort."

"I'm a lot more worried about K-State than people realize," said Oklahoma coach Jim MacKenzie. He said he was at fault for OU's poor execution at Colorado, because he had changed assignments a little each of the last four games. He'll make fewer changes this week.

Dan Devine, Missouri coach, warned that Colorado "physically has the same capability of controlling the ball against us as Nebraska did." Danny Sharp was promoted to no. 1 quarterback.

Colorado reported no serious injuries and expects to regain starting tackle Bill Csikos for the Missouri game. Iowa State had the day off, with an open date coming up.

K-State coach Doug Weaver had high priase for defensive back Henry Howard, who he said "played the best game of his career.

"Time and again he made a game-saving tackle. He is playing in constant pain, with calcium on his hip and a painful knee."

Southwest Meets Southeast

Conference Lead Up For Saturday

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- To the victor will go the spoils Saturday when Southeast Missouri hosts Southwest Missouri of Springfield in an 8 p.m. game at Houck Stadium here.

Both teams are undefeated in three league games, and although a victory Saturday will not clinch the Missouri intercollegiate Athletic Conference crown, it will mean a sure tie, since only one week of conference play remains.

Only one other team is currently in contention in the conference. Central Missouri of Warrensburg has a league slat of 2-1 going into their game with Northwest Missouri at Maryville. Southwest Missouri closes out its conference schedule next week with Central Missouri, while Southeast meets defending champion Northeast Missouri (now 0-3) at Kirksville.

Southeast Missouri last won the crown in 1962 and Southwest in 1963. Neither team was expected to win this year. Excitement is high in both camps, and a bruising affair seems assured when the two meet.

It should be the powerhouse running game of Springfield vs. the explosive aerial attack of Cape if past performances hold true.

Springfield's Ardie McCoy and Mike Howell have each rushed for more than 300 yards to date, contributing to the Bears' rushing total which is near the league top.

More importantly, as far as Southeast Missouri plans are concerned, is the Bears' rushing defense, which is the second best in the MIAA, and a pass defense which leads the league.

The Springfield eleven has allowed only one touchdown in all but one of its games (a 55-12 loss to Lamar Tech), and is the MIAA leader in that department.

Southeast Missouri, largely on the pitching arm of quarterback Greg Brune, leads the conference in passing offense, and has scored 13 touchdowns through the air. In throwing to his four receivers, ends Chuck Koerner and Glen Gibbons and halfbacks John Diepenbrock and Walt Smallwood, Burne has had only seven intercepted in 140 attempts.

The real test, however, will be provided Saturday by the Bear pass defense, paced by halfbacks Randy Wheeler and Dennis Scott, which has nabbed 20 so far this season.

Coach Kenny Knox's Indians are fifth in the MIAA in total rushing yardage, but boast one of the area's best runners in fleet halfback Walt Smallwood of Webster Groves. Smallwood last week led the conference both in total yardage and in yards per carry.

Coach Jim Mentis and his Bears are an overall 5-2 this season, while the Indians are 4-3.

Saturday's contest will mark the final home appearence of the five seniors on the Indian roster. All regulars on either offense or defense, they are end Chuck Koerner, tackle Paul Ebaugh, guards Terry Smith and Bob Widener, and fullback Jim Farrell.

The largest rainbow of the year was caught by Robert R. Baum of Kansas City at Bennett Spring State Park near Lebanon. It weighed 13 pounds, close to the 13 pound, 12 ounce record set in 1960.

Bennett Spring 110,172 including 9,756 in the final month of October; Montauk near Salem 62,670, including 7,160 in October; Roaring River near Cassville 52,861, including 1,728 in October, and Meramac near Steelville 44,877, including 4,321 in October.

The 5th grade class at St. Michael's was having a lesson in personal health. Sister had drawn a cross section of the human skin, showing roughly the pores, hair follicles, and oil glands. The function of the first two had been discussed.

"Now, here we see these tiny oil sacs, hidden beneath the surface," Sister went on. "Can anyone tell me what these might be good for?"

Charleston Bees Defeat Pups 19-0

CHARLESTON -- The Sikeston junior high football "B" team ended its season last night by taking a 19-0 licking from the host Charleston BlueJays.

Harry Hightower led the BlueJays to a shutout victory, their third of the season, in scoring two touchdowns, one in the second period on a 45-yard run and another in the third period, this one on a 14-yard end sweep. He also kicked an extra point.

Steve McClanahan started the Charleston Bees off in the scoring department in the first period. He took a handoff and spurted five yards for a TD.

Sandy Koufax Takes Cy Young Award

LOS ANGELES AP -- It is true that Sandy Koufax was not exactly thunderstruck when advised he had won the Cy Young Award for the third time.

Reached at his bachelor's vila Tuesday in suburban Studio City, the superb southpaw was, however, delighted. The vote was unanimous, just as in the previous years, by the Baseball Writers of America.

The award as baseball's best pitcher to the Los Angeles Dodgers' hero amounts to an unprecedented event. No hurler had ever won it twice, as did Sandy in 1963 and 1965, much less three times.

"I'm thrilled," said Koufax, who may have been groping for words different from his reactions on the previous award occasions.

"It's a great honor to be selected more than once, and it's an even bigger thrill to win it two years in a row.

"Especially," he continued, "since we have some great pitchers in the league in both leagues, that is."

Koufax paused, as if reflecting on the innocent, momentary omission of the American League, and quickly added with a chuckle:

The Baltimore pitchers, you'll recall, slew the Dodgers four straight in the recent World Series.

Queried about rumors that he may retire from baseball because of his famous, and infamous, ailing left elbow, Koufax merely said he has given no thought one way or another about his future plans.

The 30-year-old Koufax, who had a 27-9 record, may be the last Cy Young Award winner as it is now designed, covering both leagues.

Baseball writers are voting on whether the award should be given to the best pitcher in each league.

Wilson Selected

NEW YORK AP -- Anybody who watched the St. Louis-Chicago game Monday night knows the Defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League has to be Larry Wilson, the Cards' free safety.

The ball-hawking veteran intercepted three passes at critical points in the Cards' 24-17 victory.

It was the sixth straight game in which the seven-year veteran from Utah had intercepted at least one pass. The NFL record is seven, set by Paul Krause of Washington in 1964. Larry tied the lifetime record of five touchdowns on interceptions when he scored for the second time this season in the Bear game.

St. Louis had scored early in the first period and the Bears were trying to get back into the game when Wilson picked off a pass at the Chicago 18 and returned it 17 yards. Johnny Roland scored five plays later.

In the fourth quarter with the Cards leading 17-10, Wilson snatched another Bukich pass and ran 29 yards for a touchdown.

After the Bears narrowed the gap to 24-17 with 2:50 to go, Wilson stepped in again leaping high to grab another Bukich pass on the Cards' 14.

"He's an inspirational player," said Card Coach Charley Winner. "I don't think he's capable of playing a bad game. You can tell how much he means to the team -- the players elected him their captain."

Matthews Dumps Parma In Jr. High Opener

PARMA -- Matthews opened its 1966-67 junior high school basketball season last night with a blistering 62-37 win over the host Parma Pirates.

It was Matthews from the opening tipoff. The team spurted to a quick 6-2 lead and never let up until the final horn.

The Matthews quintet raced to a 14-5 first period lead and shot to a 28-17 half-time score.

Matthews' Vann shared high point honors with Parma's Carroll Cravens. Each collected 16 points to lead their team. Two other players landed scores in double figures for the Matthews team, Spencer and Bishop collected 11 and 10 points respectively. Wright added 10 points for the losers.

Scoring: Matthews; Vann 16, Spencer, 11, Bishop 10, Brooks 8, Murphy 1, Lindley, 4, Dewitt 4, and Hooks 8.

Return As Lettermen

Former Missouri High School All-Staters To Help A-State Basketball

JONESBORO -- For Marvin Speight, head basketball coach for the Arkansas State Indians, success this year depends upon a simple mathematical formula: desire plus leadership -- a winning season.

And following the early practice sessions, Speight seemed to think his cagers could come up with the correct combination. "They show a lot of desire and hustle," he said: "I was pleased with the majority of the boys."

But the main factor in that crucial formula is leadership, a trait the coach found lacking in last year's Indians. "We didn't have it last year, and it hurt us," he noted, "but I've already noticed signs of leadership ability in this bunch."

The star pupils of Speight's math lessons will be his lettermen, including All-American John Dickson. The 6-11 giant from Jonesboro set team high standards for field goal percentage and rebounds last season.

"John's working harder this year and showing more maturity," the coach commented.

Speight also singled out Harold Scifres (6-5), a returning letterman from Turrell, as a strong point on this edition of the Tribe. "His desire will help us play aggressive ball," Speight said.

Other returning lettermen are Mike Burk (6-7) of Jonesboro, Gary Crane (6-4) of Dexter, Mo., Harold Persfull (6-4) of Essex, Mo., and David Renn (6-5) of Belleville, Ill.

The remaining members of the varsity squad include Jim Mueller (5-10) of St. Louis, Mo., Mike Crews (6-4) of DuQuoin, Ill., Chuck Mellein (5-10) of Crawford, Ill., Dave Valander (6-3) of Parsons, Kan., Ronnie Brewer (6-9) of Marmaduke, Charles Baxter (6-1) of Paragould and Milton Sullivan (6-4) of Jonesboro.

Speight is hoping a good crop of freshmen players will be able to help out the varsity later in the year. "We have some potentially good ball players on the freshman team, and we're looking forward to a successful junior varsity season," Coach Speight said.

Freshman are Melvin McMasters (6-1) of Bay, Jon Jackson (6-0) of New Athens, Ill., Phil Rogers (6-0) of Memphis, Rusty Bourg (5-10) of St. Louis, Jack McGowan (6-2) of Bernie, Mo., Larry Busby (6-0) of Poplar Bluff, Mo.

Eddie Morrison (5-10) of Bay, Andy Moody (6-1) of West Plains, Mo., Ron McAfee (6-3) of Memphis, Tenn., Bobby Smalling (6-4) of Paragould and Bill Sanders (6-5) of O'Fallon, Ill.

The Indians, who finished with a 17-9 record in 1966, will play 19 regular games and will also participate in the Arkansas State Holiday Tournament, Dec. 28-29 and the Alexandria, La., Basketball Jamboree Jan. 26-27.

The season opened will be Dec. 3 against East Tennessee State University at Johnson City, Tenn. The same two teams will open the Indians' home season Dec. 15.

Kansas Coach Makes Another Surprising Move For Nebraska

Associated Press Sports Writer

Kansas coach Jack Mitchell, the man who successfully converted John Hadl from a running halfback to a pass-run quarterback in 1960, has made another surprising move, this time designed to give the Jayhawks some scoring punch with unbeaten Nebraska on the horizon.

Hadl became a deadly passer and currenily leads the American Football League, as the leader of the San Diego Chargers.

Mitchell doesn't imagine anything so spectacular from his latest move, that of quarterback Bob Douglass, a 6-foot-3, 202-pounder, to fullback. Douglass has never played fullback, but he runs more like one on the option play than any back Kansas has. The former No. 1 fullback, Dick Bacon, is an outstanding blocker. He's still in the picture there.

At the same time, Mitchell inserted pint-sized Bill Fenton at No. 1 quarterback ahead of Dave Fouda. Douglass started at quarterback against Kansas State, after talented Bob Skahan was lost for the season at Oklahoma State. The 5-foot-9, 155-pound Fenton took over for Skahan most of last year, passed for 500 yards and ran for 214, but broke a bone in his foot in the last game and sprained an arch this fall in practice.

"Douglass is a big, strong boy and likes to knock over people," Mitchell said. "We need some speed and depth at fullback. Fenton's foot looks like it has healed. He's experienced and he can throw and execute the option well. I'm concerned only about getting him back in condition."

In the other Big Eight camps, warnings from scouts were the order of the day. Oklahoma State assistant Bob Thompson, who scouted Texas Tech., said "Tech jelled last week and we'll have to come up with a great effort."

"I'm a lot more worried about K-State than people realize," said Oklahoma coach Jim MacKenzie. He said he was at fault for OU's poor execution at Colorado, because he had changed assignments a little each of the last four games. He'll make fewer changes this week.

Dan Devine, Missouri coach, warned that Colorado "physically has the same capability of controlling the ball against us as Nebraska did." Danny Sharp was promoted to no. 1 quarterback.

Colorado reported no serious injuries and expects to regain starting tackle Bill Csikos for the Missouri game. Iowa State had the day off, with an open date coming up.

K-State coach Doug Weaver had high priase for defensive back Henry Howard, who he said "played the best game of his career.

"Time and again he made a game-saving tackle. He is playing in constant pain, with calcium on his hip and a painful knee."

Southwest Meets Southeast

Conference Lead Up For Saturday

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- To the victor will go the spoils Saturday when Southeast Missouri hosts Southwest Missouri of Springfield in an 8 p.m. game at Houck Stadium here.

Both teams are undefeated in three league games, and although a victory Saturday will not clinch the Missouri intercollegiate Athletic Conference crown, it will mean a sure tie, since only one week of conference play remains.

Only one other team is currently in contention in the conference. Central Missouri of Warrensburg has a league slat of 2-1 going into their game with Northwest Missouri at Maryville. Southwest Missouri closes out its conference schedule next week with Central Missouri, while Southeast meets defending champion Northeast Missouri (now 0-3) at Kirksville.

Southeast Missouri last won the crown in 1962 and Southwest in 1963. Neither team was expected to win this year. Excitement is high in both camps, and a bruising affair seems assured when the two meet.

It should be the powerhouse running game of Springfield vs. the explosive aerial attack of Cape if past performances hold true.

Springfield's Ardie McCoy and Mike Howell have each rushed for more than 300 yards to date, contributing to the Bears' rushing total which is near the league top.

More importantly, as far as Southeast Missouri plans are concerned, is the Bears' rushing defense, which is the second best in the MIAA, and a pass defense which leads the league.

The Springfield eleven has allowed only one touchdown in all but one of its games (a 55-12 loss to Lamar Tech), and is the MIAA leader in that department.

Southeast Missouri, largely on the pitching arm of quarterback Greg Brune, leads the conference in passing offense, and has scored 13 touchdowns through the air. In throwing to his four receivers, ends Chuck Koerner and Glen Gibbons and halfbacks John Diepenbrock and Walt Smallwood, Burne has had only seven intercepted in 140 attempts.

The real test, however, will be provided Saturday by the Bear pass defense, paced by halfbacks Randy Wheeler and Dennis Scott, which has nabbed 20 so far this season.

Coach Kenny Knox's Indians are fifth in the MIAA in total rushing yardage, but boast one of the area's best runners in fleet halfback Walt Smallwood of Webster Groves. Smallwood last week led the conference both in total yardage and in yards per carry.

Coach Jim Mentis and his Bears are an overall 5-2 this season, while the Indians are 4-3.

Saturday's contest will mark the final home appearence of the five seniors on the Indian roster. All regulars on either offense or defense, they are end Chuck Koerner, tackle Paul Ebaugh, guards Terry Smith and Bob Widener, and fullback Jim Farrell.

JANE FROMAN, one of the nation's favorite singers until retirement, has been appointed state chairman of the 1967 Easter Seal campaign by the Missouri Society for Crippled Children and Adults. This annual campaign, which opens Feb. 10, seeks funds for the care and treatment of Missouri's physically handicapped children and adults.

Singer Heads Seal Drive

ST. LOUIS - Miss Jane Froman has been named state chairman of the 1967 Easter Seal campaign.

The Campaign opens Feb. 10 and continues through Easter Sunday, March 26.

"With a Song in My Heart" was not only a motion picture of Miss Froman's life, but it became the trademark of this courageous entertainer after her tragic plane crash in Lisbon, Portugal in 1943 and the 40 operations which followed during years of recovery and rehabilitation.

At the time of the accident, Miss Froman was on her way to entertain at U. S. bases following the outbreak of World War II.

Today, she would come out of her five-year retirement if she were asked to go to Viet Nam. She wouldn't hesitate a minute.

Miss Froman said, "GI's are the most marvelous audiences. Once you've done a show for them, you're ruined for all times."

Her rehabilitation taught her tolerance and patience. She, who to this day is seldom without pain, offers this advice to the depressed, the handicapped- "Get interested and involved in something else."

Miss Froman lives in her native Columbia and is the wife of Rowland Smith, who is with the office of public information, University of Missouri.

"Right now I'm happier than ever before in my life. I love to keep house, cook and knit", said this vivacious attractive housewife, who was rated the top female vocalist for 10 years.

Miss Froman said that it never occurred to her that she would not be well and on her feet again. She fought her way back to stardom and won the long battle to keep her right leg afflicted with recurrent osteomyelitis.

Near the end of the war, she completed her unfinished mission. Joining the USO circuit in Europe, she inspired thousands of wounded servicemen.

Having served as state chairman of the New York campaign in 1953, Miss Froman is familiar with the care and treatment program of the Easter Seal society. During the 1967 campaign, she will be the active leader of Easter Seal volunteers throughout Missouri Easter Seal Society.

For the second consecutive year, comedian Jimmy Durante will serve as the National Easter Seal chairman.

5th ANNUAL MEETNG

MEMPHIS, Tennessee, -- The fifth Annual Stockholders' Meeting of Malone & Hyde, Inc., was held Friday, October 28, at the Memphis Warehouse. All of the Directors of the Company were reelected.

The President announced that according to the first 12-weeks' sales and earnings, this fiscal year's sales will reach $275,000,000; and profits after taxes will be $3,000,000.

The Annual Board of Directors' Meeting was held immediately following the Stockholders' Meeting. All of the Officers were reelected.

The Board filled a vacany by electing J. R. Hyde III a Director.

The Board of Directors declared the regular quarterly cash dividend of 20 cents per share. The dividend is payable January 13, 1967 to Common Stockholders of record December 23, 1966.

Trading Stamps Pay Own Way in Theory

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — For every entry he passes out to customers in a certain sales contest, the owner of a gasoline station pays two cents to his supplier.

It costs the grocer about two cents on each $1 of sales to supply you with trading stamps. Put another way, the grocer pays $2.40 for the 1,200 stamps needed to fill a certain stamp book.

Is it possible, then, that these costs won't, in turn, be added to your bill? The trading stamp companies and contest promoters say these gifts are really free, and that they add nothing to your bill.

Who pays then? Is there really a Santa Claus in all this?

The usual answer is that, yes, there is a Santa Claus. It is volume. Promotional schemes, so the theory goes, provide so much added volume to a store that they pay for themselves. The needed increase might be about 15 or 20 per cent.

Not only do promotional schemes provide you with a gift and put dollars in the grocer's pocket too — but in doing this they apparently bring profits also.

One sweepstakes promoter says its business has tripled in the past few years. And Sperry & Hutchinson, a trading stamp distributor, reported profits from January through September of $17,881,000.

Promotion companies offer documentation for their claims that a good sales scheme can more than offset its own cost by means of added volume. This, however, leaves unanswered a big question: Where does the volume come from?

Generally speaking, the added sales come at the expense of a competitor. It is difficult to increase the volume of consumer food buying generally. It must come from another store's share.

The other store, however, doesn't usually permit this without a fight. It increases its advertising and promotion and perhaps takes on a stamp of its own. The quality of stamps then becomes a competitive factor.

Well aware of this, the stamp companies strive to improve the value of their products and the location, appearance and efficiency of their redemption centers.

If every store had trading stamps what kind of a situation would we be in? It hasn't happened nationally yet. About 40 per cent of the nation's food dollar carries a stamp premium with it. But some neighborhoods have been nearly saturated.

When this situation is reached you can watch for one big market to pull out of the competition, announce it will reduce prices and thus use price savings rather than gifts as a promotional tool.

With surveys showing 8 of 10 households now save stamps it is difficult to determine whether it is the demand of housewives for savings or the supply of stamps that keeps people saving, pasting, clipping, redeeming.

Some promoters say housewives enjoy playing sales promotion games, but, now that food prices have risen, some of the fun and some of the playful mood seem to have disappeared.

Radioactive Cloud Passes Over U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government weather scientists estimated Tuesday a high-flying radioactive cloud from Red China's latest nuclear blast already is passing over a wide area of the United States.

But both they and spokesmen for the Public Health Service said comparatively little of the debris is expected to appear as fallout in the United States, and they said it should present no significant health hazard.

The leading edge of the 1,000-mile-wide cloud, swept from west to east at altitudes of about 30,000 feet, is expected to leave North American sometime before noon Wednesday and head out over the Atlantic toward Europe.

This was related by Kenneth Peterson of the atmospheric radiology branch of the Commerce Department's Environmental Science Services Administration, in response to a reporter's questions.

He said the estimates are based, not on actual contact with radioactive debris, but on recorded and projected wind conditions in the upper troposphere —between 30,000 and 40,000 feet altitude —since the Red China blast was touched off last Thursday.

Sears Names New Chief Executive

His selection was announced by Austin T. Cushman, chairman, who plans to retire Jan. 31.

DATELINE:
TOKAY, HUNGARY

The story behind at least part of the current abundance of grapes might well start out, Dateline: Tokay, Hungary, for this European town gave its name to one of our popular varieties.

But the colorful Tokays in food stores today are strictly an American product --one of our plentiful western-raised grapes. Sometimes called Flame Tokays, these brilliant red to dark red grapes are easy to recognize.

Tokays come in large clusters and cling firmly to their stems. The berries are large in size, oval-shaped, very firm and are seeded, explains the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

A neutral flavor makes this a desirable addition to servings of mixed fruits-appetizers, salads, desserts. It's popular, as well in muffins, sauces, pies and still other dishes. And for a spicy, festive beverage, USDA home economists offer this recipe:

SPICY TOKAY PUNCH
2 lbs. Tokays
3 c. water
1 qt. apple cider or juice
1/4 c. sugar
1/8 tsp. salt
1 stick cinnamon (3 inches)
1 tsp. whole cloves

Stem Tokays. Crush (or grind coarsely in food chopper). Place in large saucepan with remaining ingredients. Cover and bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Strain through triple thickness of cheesecloth. Serve hot or chilled. Yield: 2-1/4 quarts.

HOUSEHOLD PETS JUMPING TO NEW POPULATION PEAK

NEW YORK -- The household pet population is increasing at a rate far exceeding that of people.

Pet industry sources estimate the increase in sales of pets, pet food and accessories at about seven per cent annually, with total volume now in the area of $1.7 billion a year.

And the trend is continuing, with emphasis on the "exotic" creatures, according to W. L. Hammond, head of pet operations for F. W. Woolworth. Among the "exotics" are alligators, chameleons, iguanas, hamsters, guinea pigs, white mice, horned toads and turtles.

But fish are the biggest sellers of all. In 1965 Woolworth sold more than seven million of them, including goldfish, the first live pet the company stocked.

The number of live birds sold in 1965 totaled more than 700,000. Parakeets are the most popular birds. Others include canaries, finches and Java Temples.

The increase in pet sales is attributed by the Woolworth buyer to the fact that Americans, always fond of pets, have more leisure and money to enjoy them.

"Pets are excellent companions," he said, "and some -- especially fish -- are like 'tranquilizers'."

The committee is scheduled to conclude its meeting Wednesday.

ARTICLE # 31

It was actually a rather rare day, for this time of year in Viet Nam.

It was bright and sunny, and what clouds there were, were stacked up like large mounds of whipped cream.

I was driving to Ben Hoa, and had chosen the back route. The back route is considerably shorter, and has less traffic. Also, I had just bought a new 35 MM camera, and I was anxious to try it out. The back route is more scenic.

It isn't very wise to make a road trip alone. You should always have a "gunner" along, but because the trip came up on rather short notice, I was unable to get anyone to go with me.

"No sweat." I thought, "I will just go by myself."

So, with my camera fully loaded, and my pistol in the same condition, I started the trip.

The first 15 minutes of the trip was used up in fighting my way through the city traffic, so I didn't get an opportunity to take any pictures.

It is impossible to explain to you how crowded Saigon is, but perhaps you will get an idea from this comparison. Flying over Saigon/Cholon, (actually two cities) you see a city that is in area about the size of Sikeston/Miner. This includes all the residential areas of Saigon/Cholon.

At the very most, I would estimate the Sikeston/Miner area to contain 25 to 30,000 people. In the Saigon/Cholon area, there are over two million people. Consequently, downtown Saigon driving is comparable to driving through Sikeston while the Cotton Carnival is in progress.

Once out on the road, the traffic thinned out, and although all the local drivers are candidates for the booby hatch, at least there are not as many of them.

I was driving along at about 40 mph, which is about the fastest you can drive on these roads, and have any expectation of survival.

Suddenly, a horn started blaring impatiently, and I caught a glimpse of a Viet Namese soldier as he came flashing by, doing close to sixty.

He was driving a 3/4 ton truck, from which the body and cab had been removed. There was just the frame, engine, wheels and the driver with his purple scarf flying in the wind.

I tried to get a picture, but I had failed to cock the camera from the previous shot. He disappeared over the hill in front of me, and almost immediately, I heard an explosion!

When I crested the hill, his truck was overturned along the side of the road, and he was lying on the ground, dead. I'm no Doctor, and I admit that I examined him from a jeep, some 50 feet away, and moving at about 40 mph, but I can assure you that my stopping would not have helped the driver. He was dead!

A small puff of smoke hung grimly over the scene, and the only other people in sight were a couple of civilians, (an old woman and a child) who were running away from the scene.

This was obviously a mine explosion, and they may have set it off, but I wasn't about to stay around and find out. I grabbed my pistol from the floor, and pushed the accelerator all the way down. Unfortunately, in the excitement of the moment, I fired a round through the jeep floor. This occurred at about the same time I passed the old woman and the child. Hearing the noise, they both dived head first inot a ditch, thinking I was shooting at them.

"Sorry 'bout that," I managed to yell as I hurried on down the road. They have been around long enough to know the score though, and it was probably just another indicent to them.

I must say though, when I returned to base, I had a hard time explaining the bullet hole in the jeep. Since it was obviously a .45 calibre hole, there was little I could do but admit that I shot it in there myself.

Mr. Bivins now insists that I carry around one bullet in my shirt pocket, a'la Barney Fife, and I must show it to him whenever he asks, or I'll have to buy him a beer.

Naval Center Wins Top Training Award

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The naval reserve training center has been praised for helping its parent command win a top national award.

LCDR J. C. Rust, commanding officer of the center has received a message from Rear Admiral Howard A. Yeager, Commandant of the ninth naval district, announcing that the district was named "best in the nation" for training naval reservists. The admiral's command, encompassing 13 midwest and Rocky mountain states, took first place over ten other naval districts in the annual E. V. Richards memorial trophy competition.

In his message to Commander Rust, the veteran flag officer commended the center and all reserve units assigned "for their high caliber of training and readiness, which is of prime importance to the security of our nation and our allies."

Admiral Yeager received the coveted award in Washington from the Navy League of the United States, which sponsors the traveling trophy.

The Cape Girardeau training center is one of 86 naval reserve activities in the ninth naval district. Two reserve units with a total of 175 men assigned are involved in drills at the center. The units are: naval reserve surface division 9 - 129 (M) commanded by LCDR L. S. Fox of Charleston and naval reserve CB - division 9- 31 commanded by LCDR D. E. Kaiser of Carbondale, Ill.

In cooperation with the navy, the Navy League has presented the Richards trophy annually to the best naval district, in recognition of its support to naval reserve programs, since 1962.

The criteria for competition were set by the naval reserve training command, Omaha. Scoring was based on the increase in the number of petty officers, naval non - commissioned officers, and their drill attendance, recruiting and re - enlistments, training and advancement of personnel.

The naval training center this year has enlisted men into the naval reserve program. One-hundred forty reservists took their annual two - weeks of active duty and 66 have been advanced in rating, said Rust.

Last year the district finished ninth among 11 competiting districts. In praising the local reservists, Admiral Yeager said, "We concentrated on recruiting and re - enlistments to fill our sagging ranks. We pushed hard on petty officer performance and advancement. We greatly depended on this team effort -- on full cooperation at all levels of command. Well Done!"

Admiral Yeager maintains his district headquarters at the Great Lakes, Ill. naval training center. From his headquarters, he directs the 137,000 man -- $2,230 billion district, including 86 naval reserve training centers and facilities. The navy's only district without a seacoast, the "Big Ninth" maintains an eight ship fleet of one destroyer escort, four escort patrol craft and three submarines. The fleet operates on the Great Lakes and is dubbed the "Corn Belt Fleet." Each year 8,000 reservists from the district receive on - the- job training aboard these ships.

$3.3 Million Sought For 10 New Centers

JEFFERSON CITY -- The State Department of Education Monday asked for $3,328,000 to construct 10 new centers for handicapped children, including an $842,413 facility for St. Louis.

B. W. Sheperd, director of the Training and Sheltered Workshop programs for the handicapped, said the St. Louis facility was given top priority in making the annual budget request of the Legislature.

Some 150 children are currently enrolled in State Training Center No. 13 in temporary quarters at 455 Lake av. The building, owned by the Lutheran Association for Higher Education and leased to the state for $1675 a month is for sale. The lease, however, expires June 1, 1967.

The center's old quarters at 1313 Hebert st., in a building leased from the St. Louis Board of Education, were declared unfit by the city fire marshal. Safety hazards were noted.

Hubert Wheeler, state education commissioner, said the state could not afford to renovate the old building, so the school was closed during the summer while officials sought other quarters.

The department has asked for funds to build new, permanent facilities but the requests were turned down by the Governor and the Legislature.

In addition to the St. Louis center, others are requested for Kansas City, St. Jospeh, Caruthersville, Hickman, Mills, Joplin, Rolla, Jefferson City, Sedalia and Bowling Green.

If all are approved, the facilities would accommodate 550 handicapped children. The St. Louis center, the largest, would be equipped and staffed to handle 200.

Services Blamed for High Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — A national supermarket spokesman says food prices can be reduced substantially only if stores cut out services he says the public demands.

But in Portland, Ore., a leader of a housewives organization planning to picket 170 stores says it would be fine to eliminate some of those services.

Elsewhere, there was scattered evidence that the burgeoning housewife revolt against high prices was inching ahead.

Clarence G. Adamy, president of the National Association of Food Chains, said Monday in Washington he sees no chance that housewife boycotts will bring lower food prices.

Prices could only be cut substantially, he said, "by shortening hours, taking out bag boys, eliminating check cashing — you could go down a considerable amount, maybe 6, 7, 8 or 9 per cent."

Mrs. Veri Jensen, secretary of Portland Women for Lower Prices, said stores could cut prices 10 per cent by remaining open fewer hours, closing Sundays and cutting out games, stamps and special promotions.

Safeway Stores in Arizona announced they would drop "bonus bingo" because of housewives' pressure.

Henry J. Frank, Safeway's state manager for 39 stores, said the decision could affect prices, but he didn't say how much.

Adamy claimed that chains make an average profit of 1.3 per cent and spend 2 per cent on advertising and promotion.

"Passing of both profits and advertising and promotion costs back to consumers in the form of across-the-board price reductions would give shoppers a 3.3 per cent decrease in prices, or about 33 cents on a $10 purchase," he said.

"And eventually this would force the stores out of business," he added.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown pegged the cost of stamps and games as "at least a week's groceries a year." That would be about 2 per cent.

Brown, a Democrat seeking re-election, announced he was sending the state's consumer counsel to testify before the Federal Trade Commission, which announced an investigation of food prices.

"These games are turning supermarkets into casinos."

Two Republicans, however, agreed with Adamy that the real cause of rising prices is inflation.

Brown's opponent, Ronald Reagan, said federal fiscal policies are to blame for inflation and added: "It is unfortunate to go to a market place and try to control this (food prices) by boycotting."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said in Lancaster, Pa., that housewives should picket the White House instead of the supermarket.

Arson In Oran Fires Suspected

ORAN -- A house and a barn, on two farms northeast of Oran, were ruined by fire this weekend, in what may have been arson and a Hallowe'en bit of destruction. An investigation was underway into the fires, which took place Friday at 10 p.m.

Destroyed were the barn at the John Spooler farm, three miles from Oran, and a vacant house on ground owned by William Fisher and Joe Fisher, brothers, who live in the same community.

Chief Jerome Heisserer of the Oran fire department said the firemen were able to save the dwelling of Spooler but could not save the barn. The Fisher house fire evidently started first and the firemen could not save it. It was a four-room frame house, vacant for some time.

Scott county officers learned that two automobiles were seen leaving the area about the time the fires were starting. Both cars were driven a short distance with the lights off; then the lights were switched on. Observers told officials that each car had numerous taillights, this indicating that the autos may have been of recent model. The automobiles headed toward Oran, but evidently turned on side roads, it was reported.

Lost in the Spooler barn fire were 1,300 bales of hay and 400 bushels of new corn. A wagon load of corn was beneath the barn, but this was rolled to safety by firemen. There were few tools and little machinery in the barn.

"Good kids just don't happen, they are raised that way. Parents, clery, teachers and leaders of various youth organizations all contribute to the finished product."

Victory Should Come First Ike Insists

WASHINGTON -- Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said Monday that the United States should make victory in the Vietnam War in "first priority" of national policy.

He said that the speedy conclusion of hostilities is more important than domestic welfare programs or sending a man to the moon.

"I do not believe in gradualism in fighting a war. I believe in putting in the kind of military strength we need to win, and getting it over with as soon as possible."

Eisenhower offered no peace formula of his own. He said he neither called for, nor rejected the use of nuclear weapons.

He explained that, if the enemy was convinced in advance that nuclear arms would never be used, their deterrent value would be undercut.

"Freedom is indivisible. If we allow other people to lose their freedom without doing anything about it, then we have lost some freedom of our own," he said in the copyrighted interview with U. S. News & World Report.

Job Corps Talked At Morley Session

MORLEY -- The Scott county coordinators and aides met Wednesday at the central Scott County neighborhood service center.

Those present were Bill Paylor of the Sikeston Center, Mrs. Mary Bain, coordinator, and Mrs. Myrtis Greer and Mrs. Louise Harris of the Scott City center, Paul Huey, coordinator and Mrs. Maureen Tidmore and Mrs. Dottie Miller of the Oran Center, Mrs. Bill Anderson coordinator and Mrs. Phillip Newman and Mrs. Joe Davis of the Morley center, Chip Schamerbauch, area coordinator, Bill Orr and John Heller of the Sikeston employment office.

Orr discussed the job corps for boys and girls between 16 and 21.

The centers were asked to provide the list of names of those eligible.

Heller discussed jobs which were available to families, who are willing to move to other parts of the country. Schamerbauch asked the centers to make a survey to find persons who would like to fill out a form for a job in a factory, which will employ 1,200 women and 300 men. This factory will be built in the Sikeston area if the people are available to do the work.

Anyone wishing to apply for a job in this factory can get a form at any of the service centers as well as the employment office. Those applying should be between 21-55.

The coordinators and John Havis also met for a meeting at the Central Scott county office Thursday to discuss recent changes in the program.

Farm Product Prices Decline

WASHINGTON AP -- Farm product prices declined 1.5 per cent during the month ended Oct. 15. This continues the trend, reported four weeks ago, that halted an upturn of several months.

Reporting the decline, the Agriculture Department said lower prices for cattle, hogs and wheat were mainly responsible. Higher wholesale milk prices, and higher prices for oranges and cotton, limited the decrease.

The mid - October farm price level was 7 per cent above that of a year ago.

Prices paid by farmers for goods and services used in productions and in family living were unchanged during the month. These prices were 5 per cent above a year earlier.

Sheppard Visits Murder Scene

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) - Samuel H. Sheppard moved back 12 years in time today as he visited the lakefront suburban home where he and his first wife once lived and where she was murdered in 1954. He made the unhappy journey with a Criminal Court jury.

Sheppard and his attorneys watched from the courthouse steps as the bus loaded and left on the 16-mile trip to Bay Village, west of the city along the Lake Erie shore.

The defendant and his counsel then drove away in a car that was parked across from the courthouse.

After the jury views the scene, it will hear opening arguments in Sheppard's second-degree murder trial, now in its second week.

$3.3 Million Sought For 10 New Centers

JEFFERSON CITY -- The State Department of Education Monday asked for $3,328,000 to construct 10 new centers for handicapped children, including an $842,413 facility for St. Louis.

B. W. Sheperd, director of the Training and Sheltered Workshop programs for the handicapped, said the St. Louis facility was given top priority in making the annual budget request of the Legislature.

Some 150 children are currently enrolled in State Training Center No. 13 in temporary quarters at 455 Lake av. The building, owned by the Lutheran Association for Higher Education and leased to the state for $1675 a month is for sale. The lease, however, expires June 1, 1967.

U.S. Bond Sales Rise

Americans everywhere are buying more United States Savings Bonds than anytime since World War II, according to Donald R. Bohannon Savings Bonds chaifman for Scott county. Sales of Series E Bonds during September were the highest for any September since 1945.

Locally, the chairman reports, sales for the past month amounted to $30,187, bringing the total for the first nine months of 1966 to $269,496.

John L. Wilson, state Savings Bonds chairman, says total sales in Missouri for September amounted to $12,389,903. Sales for the year thus far in Missouri totaled $112,354,698. Nationally, Wilson reports, sales of Series E and H bonds amounted to $403 million during September, up 18 per cent over September a year ago.

Much of this increase is due, Wilson said, to an upsurge in payroll savings plans for the purchase of U.S. Savings Bonds. During the past nine months, 48,734 additional Missiourians signed up for the payroll savings plan. Payroll savings now account for nearly 60 per cent of all U.S. Savings Bonds currently being purchased.

Americans everywhere are acting in increasing numers on the plea from President Lyndon B. Johnson to support our troops in Viet Nam by purchasing U.S. Savings Bonds, Wilson said.

Sales of Savings Bonds in area counties were:

Bollinger -- $4,050 in September, $17,266 this year, 39.2 per cent of the county quota.

Butler -- $11,325 in September, $133,215 this year, 36 per cent of the quota.

Cape Girardeau -- $48,169 in September, $549,563 this year, 85 per cent of the quota.

Dunklin -- $13,612 in September, $95,140 this year, 18.7 per cent of the quota.

Mississippi -- $4,818 in September, $41,008 this year, 15.3 per cent of the quota.

New Madrid -- $1,931 in September, $34,553 this year, 11.5 per cent of the quota.

Pemiscot -- $12,875 in September, $126,985 this year, 36.6 per cent of the quota.

Scott -- $30,187 in September, $269,496 this year, 47.4 per cent of quota.

General's Death Recalls Forced March Incident

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (AP) — Gen. Ben Lear Jr., famed World War II officer who stirred national controversy in a prewar disciplinary march between Memphis, Tenn., and Little Rock, Ark., died Tuesday. He was 87.

Lear retired from the Army after World War II and moved to Memphis, where he became active in civic affairs. Mrs. Lear had maintained the family home here since her husband was admitted to the hospital in August 1964.

Lear had the reputation of being one of the toughest leaders in the Army. He enlisted in the Army in 1898 and, as a first sergeant, sailed for the Philippines at the age of 19 during the Spanish-American War.

His devotion to discipline led to the celebrated "yoo-hoo" incident in July 1941, while he was in command of the 2nd Army. A motorized regiment returning from maneuvers to Camp Robinson, Ark., drove past a golf course in Memphis, where some shorts-clad girls were playing. The soldiers whistled and shouted "Yoo-hoo!" at the young women.

Lear happened to be playing on the same course. He ordered the regiment to proceed immediately to Camp Robinson — and then ordered the troops back to Memphis, a round-trip of 300 miles. The 325 officers and men had to walk 15 miles of the route under a broiling sun.

There was criticism in Congress and an inquiry into "mass punishment of guilty and innocent alike."

ICE BAG USEFUL IN HOME FIRST AID

With winter on the way the season of the sprain will soon be with us. The American Medical Association points out that immediate applications of cold compresses to sprains will lessen swelling. "Such applications should be continued," the AMA recommends, "for at least half an hour before the sprained limb is bandaged."

A less familiar use of cold is in the emergency treatment of minor burns. The immediate immersion of the injured part in ice water, advises the AMA, may reduce pain and possibly reduce tissie damage.

The cold pack has other first aid uses as well. Cold applications may reduce the flow of blood in nosebleeds and in minor cuts and nicks. Since cold constricts the blood vessels, cold applications tend to inhibit bleeding.

Applications of ice water can also relieve discomfort from insect bites and stings and may delay the chemical action and circulation of posion injected by the pest, the association notes.

ILLEGITIMACY, HIGH INFANT DEATH, LINKED

Out - of - wedlock births have increased 83 percent in the last 13 years, according to Dr. Arthur J. Lesser, deputy chief of the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Illegitimacy is one of the reasons why the U. S. is having so much difficulty in lowering the infant death rate, he noted. Death at birth occurs twice as frequently in out-of-wedlock births as in legitimate births, Dr. Lesser reported.

Illegitimacy increases the risks for mothers and infant, he said, because about one-half of the unmarried mothers seek prenatal care either late in their pregnancy or not at all. Prematurity is twice as high for them as for married women. The death rate among unmarried pregnant women is a shocking four times greater than among married women, Dr. Lesser noted.

For these reasons, the federal government has initiated a five - year, $30 million a year program to assist state health departments to set up maternal and infant care facilities to combat the problems of illegitimacy, as well as to reduce the risks of mental retardation, prematurity, birth defects and brain damage. Neighborhood maternity clinics, hospitalization for high risk patients, nutritional and family planning guidance are but some of the programs paid for from these funds.

"The availability of family planning services is proving to be a great attraction and an excellent incentive to attendance at prenatal and post-partum clinics, "Dr. Lesser reported.

He noted that, "Our experiences bear out the thesis that women of low income and limited education are interested in their own health and in giving good care to their infants."

U.S. Bond Sales Rise

Americans everywhere are buying more United States Savings Bonds than anytime since World War II, according to Donald R. Bohannon Savings Bonds chairman for Scott county. Sales of Series E Bonds during September were the highest for any September since 1945.

Locally, the chairman reports, sales for the past month amounted to $30,187, bringing the total for the first nine months of 1966 to $269,496.

John L. Wilson, state Savings Bonds chairman, says total sales in Missouri for September amounted to $12,389,903. Sales for the year thus far in Missouri totaled $112,354,698. Nationally, Wilson reports, sales of Series E and H bonds amounted to $403 million during September, up 18 per cent over September a year ago.

Much of this increase is due, Wilson said, to an upsurge in payroll savings plans for the purchase of U.S. Savings Bonds. During the past nine months, 48,734 additional Missiourians signed up for the payroll savings plan. Payroll savings now account for nearly 60 per cent of all U.S. Savings Bonds currently being purchased.

Americans everywhere are acting in increasing numers on the plea from President Lyndon B. Johnson to support our troops in Viet Nam by purchasing U.S. Savings Bonds, Wilson said.

Sales of Savings Bonds in area counties were:

Bollinger -- $4,050 in September, $17,266 this year, 39.2 per cent of the county quota.

Butler -- $11,325 in September, $133,215 this year, 36 per cent of the quota.

Cape Girardeau -- $48,169 in September, $549,563 this year, 85 per cent of the quota.

Dunklin -- $13,612 in September, $95,140 this year, 18.7 per cent of the quota.

Mississippi -- $4,818 in September, $41,008 this year, 15.3 per cent of the quota.

New Madrid -- $1,931 in September, $34,553 this year, 11.5 per cent of the quota.

Pemiscot -- $12,875 in September, $126,985 this year, 36.6 per cent of the quota.

Scott -- $30,187 in September, $269,496 this year, 47.4 per cent of quota.

Stoddard -- $5,906 in September, $147,797 this year, 49.3 per cent of quota.

General's Death Recalls Forced March Incident

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (AP) — Gen. Ben Lear Jr., famed World War II officer who stirred national controversy in a prewar disciplinary march between Memphis, Tenn., and Little Rock, Ark., died Tuesday. He was 87.

Lear retired from the Army after World War II and moved to Memphis, where he became active in civic affairs. Mrs. Lear had maintained the family home here since her husband was admitted to the hospital in August 1964.

Lear had the reputation of being one of the toughest leaders in the Army. He enlisted in the Army in 1898 and, as a first sergeant, sailed for the Philippines at the age of 19 during the Spanish-American War.

His devotion to discipline led to the celebrated "yoo-hoo" incident in July 1941, while he was in command of the 2nd Army. The Prayer

For Today

From the Upper Room

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 2,

Fight gallantly, armed with faith and a good conscience. (I Timothy 1;19, NEB)

PRAYER: Loving Father, give me a good and true conscience, one that reproduces the conscience of Thine only Son, Jesus Christ. In His name I pray, as He taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . . . .Amen."

NOT ON THE MENU

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: How old must a person be before he lives down a childhood mistake?

When I was nine years old I found a hole in the wall which was covered by a picture. My father had made the hole as a hiding place for his somewhat meager savings.

When the circus came to town I wanted very much to go but I had no money. That was the day I found the hole in the wall. I took $2.50 and treated myself, my two sisters, and my brother to a wonderful day at the circus.

When father came home to dinner he told us he had heard that his children had had quite a day and then the whole story about the money came out. I got such a walloping I couldn't sit down for two days.

I am now a married man, 45 years of age. My oldest son is in the Air Force. I have been the treasurer for the United Fund and other well-known civic organizations. To this day my sister loves to tell everybody she knows about the time I stole the money and went to the circus. When she learned I was to be the treasurer for our church fellowship group she said, "How much do you plan to make from the job?"

Please tell me how to respond to these poisonous little barbs which have been slung at me all these years. -- FOREVER GUILTY

Dear Forever: There isn't a person living who has not done at least one extremely foolish or dishonest thing in his childhood.

Your sister must be pretty desperate for conversation if she has to go back 36 years to dig up something to talk about. Of course, nobody takes her seriously when she shoots off her mouth this way and you shouldn't either. The next time she brings up the subject tell her to update her material or get a new writer.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 14-year-old girl who needs someone to tell me if I am right or wrong.

My best friend (I will call her (Cindy) told me she would sleep at my house Friday night. I asked her one whole week in advance and it was all set. My dad was supposed to pick her up at 7:00 that evening. At 7:00 p.m. she telephoned and said, "I got a call from Mrs. So-and-So a few minutes ago and she wants me to baby-sit for her tonight. I told her I would. I'll sleep at your house some other time."

This is not the first time Cindy has done this to me. A few weeks ago we made plans to go to the Fair and then her mother called to apologize for her.

I am really burned up and wonder if you think I should be a friend to her if she wants to make up. Please make up my mind. -- WILMA

Dear Wilma: Cindy is flakey and if you didn't know it before you certainly should know it now. So accept her limited, half-baked, semi-sincere friendship. It is obvious that she does not attach the importance to the relationship that you do.

Confidential to Miss Confident: Don't bet the rent. Marriage is no cure for excessive drinking. The odds are good that he will drink more after marriage, not less. Added pressures and the responsibilities of his "ready made family" will probably send him back to the bottle for comfort and escape.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TUY HOA, VIETNAM (AHT-NC0 -- Some soldiers in Vietnam seldom fire a shot, but their efforts lend as much to victory as those of the front line infantryman.

Private First Class Jimmy D. Ledbetter, 23, son of Mrs. Susie B. Ledbetter, Morehouse, Mo., is a welder and his job is to maintain equipment necessary for combat and civic operations.

Father, Son Face Same 2 Charges

Like father, like son?

The adage proved true Monday according to Sikeston police in the case of Charles Parker, 314 Benton, and his son Eugene Parker, 406 Gladys.

The son was visiting at the father's residence Monday afternoon. Both the father and the son have new cars. But their similarity does not end there.

The father squealed tires as he drove from his residence. A Sikeston policeman was parked nearby and issued a summons to Charles Parker charging careless and imprudent driving. Parker was told to report to the police station, where another officer noticed he was operating a vehicle wihtout a city license. He was issued another summons at the station for no city license.

Just a few minutes later Eugene Parker, the son, squealed his tires as he drove from his father's residence. He, too, was summoned for careless and reckless driving and told to report to the police station, by the same arresting officer.

The officer at the station was still writing out the summons on his father when the son walked in. The officer then checked the son's car and proceeded to charge him with operating a vehicle without a city license.

Cairo Bridge Plans Are Reviewed

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. -- Federal and state highway officials are studying preliminary plans for a $17,000,000, four lane interstate highway bridge to be constructed over the Mississippi River north of Cairo, Public Works Director Francis S. Lorenz announced Monday.

The bridge will be part of Interstate 57, which extends from Chicago to Sikeston, Mo., where it connects with other routes on the interstate system.

The preliminary plans have been developed by Alfred Benesch & Co. Chicago, consulting engineers under contract with the highway departments of Illinois and Missouri and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads.

The proposed bridge will have two 12-foot traffic lanes in each direction. The opposing lanes are to be divided by a median. Estimated cost of $17,000,000 for the bridge includes approaches on each side of the river.

Location of the proposed bridge has been pinpointed in the preliminary plans at a point 7.5 miles north of the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers.

When preliminary plans have been approved, additional studies will be undertaken by the consulting firm. No time schedule for the construction has been set, but officials of the two states are hopeful that work contracts can be completed in 1970.

Speaking of Venice, if Venice had been in this country, the Red Cross would have been in there evacuating them long ago!

COPIUS, COLORFUL CLUSTERS

Few if any other foods could match the display of colors shown by the different varieties of grapes. What's more, these plump, ripe berries are outstanding in numbers as well. This season's harvest of more than 3-1/2 million tons--second only to last year's crop -- has put grapes among our most plentiful foods, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

To choose wisely from this colorful abundance, USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service advises selecting clusters of plump, fresh-appearing grapes that do not easily fall off the stems. It is well to know what the varieties look like, too, because good color (which depends on variety) generally is a sign of well-developed sugar content and flavor.

The popular Thompson Seedless, for example, is a pale green grape. Though this variety begins appearing in summer, it still is available in many food stores.

Cold weather varieties which are now coming to market include: red Tokays, black Ribiers, greenish-white Almerias, blue-black Concords, white Niagaras, light red Catawbas and purple-red Delawares. Soon, the light red Emperors, so popular during the holidays, will make their appearance as well.

The salary of Edmund J. Randolph, first U.S. attorney general was $1,500 a year.

THE BLACKBOARD BUNGLE

Mother took her 1st-grader to an eye doctor, "Donald tells me," she said, "that he can't see the blackboard anymore."

"Oh, come now, Donald," laughed the doctor. "Let me have a look." He examined the boy's eyes and pronounced them perfect. "Surely, Donald," he said, "You can see the blackboard!"

The Prayer

For Today

From the Upper Room

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 2,

Fight gallantly, armed with faith and a good conscience. (I Timothy 1;19, NEB)

PRAYER: Loving Father, give me a good and true conscience, one that reproduces the conscience of Thine only Son, Jesus Christ. In His name I pray, as He taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . . . .Amen."

NOT ON THE MENU

"How would you like your rice?" he asked. "Boiled for fried?"

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: How old must a person be before he lives down a childhood mistake?

When I was nine years old I found a hole in the wall which was covered by a picture. My father had made the hole as a hiding place for his somewhat meager savings.

When the circus came to town I wanted very much to go but I had no money. That was the day I found the hole in the wall. I took $2.50 and treated myself, my two sisters, and my brother to a wonderful day at the circus.

When father came home to dinner he told us he had heard that his children had had quite a day and then the whole story about the money came out. I got such a walloping I couldn't sit down for two days.

I am now a married man, 45 years of age. My oldest son is in the Air Force. I have been the treasurer for the United Fund and other well-known civic organizations. To this day my sister loves to tell everybody she knows about the time I stole the money and went to the circus. When she learned I was to be the treasurer for our church fellowship group she said, "How much do you plan to make from the job?"

Please tell me how to respond to these poisonous little barbs which have been slung at me all these years. -- FOREVER GUILTY

Dear Forever: There isn't a person living who has not done at least one extremely foolish or dishonest thing in his childhood.

Your sister must be pretty desperate for conversation if she has to go back 36 years to dig up something to talk about. Of course, nobody takes her seriously when she shoots off her mouth this way and you shouldn't either. The next time she brings up the subject tell her to update her material or get a new writer.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 14-year-old girl who needs someone to tell me if I am right or wrong.

My best friend (I will call her (Cindy) told me she would sleep at my house Friday night. I asked her one whole week in advance and it was all set. My dad was supposed to pick her up at 7:00 that evening. At 7:00 p.m. she telephoned and said, "I got a call from Mrs. So-and-So a few minutes ago and she wants me to baby-sit for her tonight. I told her I would. I'll sleep at your house some other time."

This is not the first time Cindy has done this to me. A few weeks ago we made plans to go to the Fair and then her mother called to apologize for her.

I am really burned up and wonder if you think I should be a friend to her if she wants to make up. Please make up my mind. -- WILMA

Dear Wilma: Cindy is flakey and if you didn't know it before you certainly should know it now. So accept her limited, half-baked, semi- sincere friendship. It is obvious that she does not attach the importance to the relationship that you do.

Confidential to Miss Confident: Don't bet the rent. Marriage is no cure for excessive drinking. The odds are good that he will drink more after marriage, not less. Added pressures and the responsibilities of his "ready made family" will probably send him back to the bottle for comfort and escape.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TUY HOA, VIETNAM (AHTNC0 -- Some soldiers in Vietnam seldom fire a shot, but their efforts lend as much to victory as those of the front line infantryman.

Private First Class Jimmy D. Ledbetter, 23, son of Mrs. Susie B. Ledbetter, Morehouse, Mo., is a welder and his job is to maintain equipment necessary for combat and civic operations.

Pvt. Ledbetter and his unit, the 39th Engineer Battalion, 18th Engineer Brigade, teamed up last month with another unit to build a road through 1.3 miles of some of the densest jungle in Vietnam.

Steep granite slopes made movement difficult for vehicles. Bulldozers and cranes were constantly breaking down and it took much overtime work to keep equipment in operation.

Pvt. Ledbetter entered the Army in October 1965, was last stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., and arrived overseas in March 1966.

Father, Son Face Same 2 Charges

Like father, like son?

The adage proved true Monday according to Sikeston police in the case of Charles Parker, 314 Benton, and his son Eugene Parker, 406 Gladys.

The son was visiting at the father's residence Monday afternoon. Both the father and the son have new cars. But their similarity does not end there.

The father squealed tires as he drove from his residence. A Sikeston policeman was parked nearby and issued a summons to Charles Parker charging careless and imprudent driving. Parker was told to report to the police station, where another officer noticed he was operating a vehicle wihtout a city license. He was issued another summons at the station for no city license.

Just a few minutes later Eugene Parker, the son, squealed his tires as he drove from his father's residence. He, too, was summoned for careless and reckless driving and told to report to the police station, by the same arresting officer.

The officer at the station was still writing out the summons on his father when the son walked in. The officer then checked the son's car and proceeded to charge him with operating a vehicle without a city license.

Cairo Bridge Plans Are Reviewed

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. -- Federal and state highway officials are studying preliminary plans for a $17,000,000, four lane interstate highway bridge to be constructed over the Mississippi River north of Cairo, Public Works Director Francis S. Lorenz announced Monday.

The bridge will be part of Interstate 57, which extends from Chicago to Sikeston, Mo., where it connects with other routes on the interstate system.

The preliminary plans have been developed by Alfred Benesch & Co. Chicago, consulting engineers under contract with the highway departments of Illinois and Missouri and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads.

The proposed bridge will have two 12-foot traffic lanes in each direction. The opposing lanes are to be divided by a median. Estimated cost of $17,000,000 for the bridge includes approaches on each side of the river.

Location of the proposed bridge has been pinpointed in the preliminary plans at a point 7.5 miles north of the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers.

When preliminary plans have been approved, additional studies will be undertaken by the consulting firm. No time schedule for the construction has been set, but officials of the two states are hopeful that work contracts can be completed in 1970.

Speaking of Venice, if Venice had been in this country, the Red Cross would have been in there evacuating them long ago!

COPIUS, COLORFUL CLUSTERS

Few if any other foods could match the display of colors shown by the different varieties of grapes. What's more, these plump, ripe berries are outstanding in numbers as well. This season's harvest of more than 3-1/2 million tons--second only to last year's crop -- has put grapes among our most plentiful foods, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

To choose wisely from this colorful abundance, USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service advises selecting clusters of plump, fresh-appearing grapes that do not easily fall off the stems. It is well to know what the varieties look like, too, because good color (which depends on variety) generally is a sign of well-developed sugar content and flavor.

The popular Thompson Seedless, for example, is a pale green grape. Though this variety begins appearing in summer, it still is available in many food stores.

Cold weather varieties which are now coming to market include: red Tokays, black Ribiers, greenish-white Almerias, blue-black Concords, white Niagaras, light red Catawbas and purple-red Delawares. Soon, the light red Emperors, so popular during the holidays, will make their appearance as well.

The salary of Edmund J. Randolph, first U.S. attorney general was $1,500 a year.

THE BLACKBOARD BUNGLE

Mother took her 1st-grader to an eye doctor, "Donald tells me," she said, "that he can't see the blackboard anymore."

"Oh, come now, Donald," laughed the doctor. "Let me have a look." He examined the boy's eyes and pronounced them perfect. "Surely, Donald," he said, "You can see the blackboard!"

Today In U.S. History

by THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 2, the 306th day of 1966. There are 59 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1948, President Harry S. Truman was elected for his first full term of office.

On this date:

In 1734, issues of John Peter Zenger's weekly journal were ordered seized and destroyed in New York, resulting in the famous trial that established freedom of the press.

In 1920, regular radio broadcasting began in the United States at station KDKA in Pittsburgh which broadcast the Harding-Cox presidential election returns.

In 1942, German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps began its retreat from El Alamein in the desert of North Africa.

In 1944, President Franklin D. Roosevelt declared the war against Japan was many months ahead of, as he put it, "our own optimistic schedule."

Ten years ago -- The State Department announced U. S. shipments of military supplies to Israel had been halted.

Five years ago -- President Kennedy said the United States would make the necessary preparations to resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere, in his words: "so as to be ready in case it becomes necessary to conduct them." This in the wake of Soviet Russia's detonation of a bigger than 50-megaton atomic device.

One year ago -- A 32-year-old Baltimore Quaker, Norman Morrison, burned himself to death in front of the Pentagon in Washington in protest against U.S. involvement in the Viet Nam war.

At a Spanish embassy dinner, ecretary of State Dean Rusk commented on how diplomacy has changed, with instant information and even ministers of information. Rusk quoted Thomas Jefferson, who sent a minister to Spain, as saying: "I have not heard from him in two years. If I don't hear from him next year I will write him a letter."

The Truth About Arthritis

First of Four Articles

Arthritis, which affects some 13 million Americans, is our No. 1 crippler. In a recent statement, the U. S. Surgeon General also revealed that arthritis costs our economy well over a billion dollars a year.

"Because the crippling effect of arthritis has created a national medical and economic problem" he concluded, "arthritis must be recognized as a major health threat that must be surmounted."

Dr. William S. Clark, president of The Arthritis Foundation, spells out the problem in the latest booklet on rheumatoid arthritis from the Foundation: "We do not know the cause and we do not have a cure. Nevertheless, the painful and disabling effect of rheumatoid arthritis can be alleviated by modern medical skills. With early diagnosis and treatment of symptoms most of the severe crippling can be prevented. With new techniques for rehabilitation, even severely disabled persons can be brought back to a more active and productive life."

Of some 100 diseases that affect the joints, five stand out: ankylosing spondylitis, osteoarthritis, gout, rheumatic fever and rheumatoid arthritis . . . the most painful and troublesome of all.

There is no single pattern of treatment for rheumatoid arthritis, since all cases are different. It will involve a number of things, not just one or two. Exercises may be prescribed, and almost certainly pure aspirin will be. Even a patient's mental attitude can have a bearing on treatment.

Next: Symptoms and treatment.

The Truth About Arthritis

First of Four Articles

Arthritis, which affects some 13 million Americans, is our No. 1 crippler. In a recent statement, the U. S. Surgeon General also revealed that arthritis costs our economy well over a billion dollars a year.

"Because the crippling effect of arthritis has created a national medical and economic problem" he concluded, "arthritis must be recognized as a major health threat that must be surmounted."

Dr. William S. Clark, president of The Arthritis Foundation, spells out the problem in the latest booklet on rheumatoid arthritis from the Foundation: "We do not know the cause and we do not have a cure. Nevertheless, the painful and disabling effect of rheumatoid arthritis can be alleviated by modern medical skills. With early diagnosis and treatment of symptoms most of the severe crippling can be prevented. With new techniques for rehabilitation, even severely disabled persons can be brought back to a more active and productive life."

Of some 100 diseases that affect the joints, five stand out: ankylosing spondylitis, osteoarthritis, gout, rheumatic fever and rheumatoid arthritis . . . the most painful and troublesome of all.

There is no single pattern of treatment for rheumatoid arthritis, since all cases are different. It will involve a number of things, not just one or two. Exercises may be prescribed, and almost certainly pure aspirin will be. Even a patient's mental attitude can have a bearing on treatment.

Next: Symptoms and treatment.

JOHNSON

allies, Johnson said that the only message heard yet from the Communists has been "the voice of renewed hostility."

He said that "until that voice changes -- until the Communists realize they cannot win this war -- there will be no miracle of peace in Viet Nam."

With all this, he said, Manila did produce "a meeting of mind and spirit" that may yet have great significance.

After the meeting, Johnson is to take off for a nonstop flight to Washington, where his arrival at Dulles International Airport at 8 p.m. EST will be televised live across the nation.

Eight hours before Johnson left Seoul, North Korean troops ambushed a patrol from the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division 800 yards south of the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea, killed six Americans and a South Korean soldier and wounded the other American in the patrol. The Communist troops escaped.

The North Korean attack was announced five hours after the President took off for Alaska. It was the most serious of a series of attacks made by the North Koreans along the armistice line since Johnson's trip to Korea was announced Oct. 6. Some observers in Seoul thought the Communists might be trying to put pressure on the South Koreans to resist any American requests for more troops for Viet Nam.

Winding up his 17-day, seven-nation sweep around the rim of the Pacific, the U.S. chief executive made a parting pledge to maintain America's military strength in South Korea against Communist China and North Korea.

The President looked fresh and rested despite the strains of the tiring trip. He said an ebullient farewell at the close of his three-day state visit to South Korea, then climbed into his special plane, Air Force One, with Mrs. Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and White House officials.

Before leaving Korea, Johnson and President Chung Hee Park signed a farewell communique which promised to keep U.S. forces in Korea at their present level of 50,000, laid a wreath at the National Assembly, and made brief goodby remarks at the airport where a girls' chorus sang "The Yellow Rose of Texas" in Korean.

In his talk to the Korean Assembly — the last major pronouncement of the Asian trip — Johnson said he had "listened and learned much on this trip" from many things, including "the solid agreement we found among allies at the Manila conference." But he added that "difficult days lie ahead of us in Viet Nam" and that peace will not come there until the Communists change their mind about fighting.

In 16 days, Johnson has traveled 25,000 miles to seven countries, the state of Hawaii and American Samoa, in the South Seas.

Erhard Asked To Resign

BONN, Germany (AP) - Top leaders of Chancellor Ludwing Erhard's party decided today to press for his resignation, informed sources reported. They said he agreed to quit if he could participate in deciding on his successor.

Erhard spoke at a closed-door meeting of Christian Democratic party chiefs in Parliament. It has been widely reported that he would favor Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder to succeed him-if he had to go.

The source said Erhard stressed the importance of continuity in policy and also made it a condition of his resignation that he take part in the formation of his successor's policy.

The informant reported that top party leaders had already agreed to press Erhard to quit. This decision was said to have been made at an earlier meeting of the party's top leadership-a group of 11 men.

Erhard was meeting with his rump Cabinet to work out of the tax increases which brought the resignation of four Free Democratic party ministers last week and set off the crisis that led to demands for his resignation.

The 1967 budget has a hole in it estimated at $725 million to a billion. At least $450 million of this is needed to fulfill promises to buy arms in the United States.

Whether higher taxes can be approved is uncertain. The Free Democrats have said they will not vote for them and without the Free Democrats, Erhard has no majority in Parliament.

On Aug. 30, the city reissued Jimmerson's package liquor license, but did not renew the beer license.

The state department of liquor control did not renew the state license for package liquor. It expired June 30 and was not renewed because of past conduct, George Liebig, Cape Girardeau district supervisor of the state department of liquor control, said today.

When asked if the five pages of complaints were the reason for refusal, Liebig said "that was part of it." He also said Jimmerson did not have $1,000 in merchandise other than liquor in stock.

Liebig said that on Oct. 13, an agent of the state department of liquor, walked into the Sunset Improvement Club, was served a shot of whisky and bought two cans of beer.

Jimmerson said today that when his licenses were not renewed, he had much of his life's earnings invested in the building. He stated that by organizing the Sunset Improvement Club he could collect rent on the property.

Jimmerson said he has a wife and six children, four in school. He also operates a barber shop and has a coal business.

Jimmerson stated that the club has been loosely organized since 1958. It was chartered July 18, 1966. Board members are: Jimmerson, Ted Echols, King Simmons, Charles Jones and George Wofe.

The Communists escaped and there was no indication that any were wounded.

A spokesman for the U.S. 8th Army said the attack occurred under a full moon and the firing was heard at the patrol's base camp. A motorized patrol was sent out to investigate and found the bodies and the wounded man.

The spokesman said there was evidence that the patrol returned the Communist fire when it was ambushed. He described the clash as "quite a good engagement."

The United Nations Command announced that the eight-man patrol was jumped by the Communists about 800 yards south of the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea.

The ambush occurred east of Libby Bridge, one of two spanning the Imjin River in the American sector of the front and close to Panmunjom where the Military Armistice Commission meets in the demilitarized zone.

The U.N. Command said the attack occurred at 3:15 a.m. President Johnson gave no indication that he was aware of it when he left Kimpo Airfield 15 miles away. The ambush was not announcement said:

"All of the dead and wounded were assigned to the 2nd Infantry Division. Their identities will be released after notification of next of kin."

It was the most serious of a series of North Korean attacks that began after Johnson's trip to Korea was announced Oct. 6. The U.N. Command demanded an immediate meeting of the Military Armistice Commission to take up the ambush and "other serious violations of the armistice agreement".

No Americans were involved in 10 previous incidents that began along the armistice line on Oct. 15. Several South Korean soldiers were killed.

The recent increase in North Korean attacks along the armistice line led some observers in Seoul to think the Communists were trying to apply pressure on the South Koreans to resist American requests for more troops in Viet Nam. South Korea now has approximately 45,000 troops fighting alongside U.S. forces there.

The rest of the evidence turned over to the archives may possibly be shown to scholars and investigators, officials said. But Dr. James B. Rhoads, deputy archivist, said "we don't plan to place them on exhibit any time in the foreseeable future."

SONNETS FOR PRAYER

I can't find time
To clean and cook
If I've on hand
A real good book.
Than boil and bake,
I'd rather rhyme--
But we can't eat
It at meal time.

MRS. FLOYD STALLINGS of Charleston puts spaghetti broccoli au gratin into the oven to bake.

Mrs. Floyd Stallings Charleston Homemaker

Editor's Note: This is the 11th in a series about the home-life of Sikeston area families.

By Ruth Dillender

CHARLESTON -- Mrs. Marilyn Stallings, 1403 East Cypress St., keeps busy caring for her husband, Floyd, and children, Kimberly Ann, four and a half and Mark Stephen, two years old. She finds time to be an active member of the 20th Century Study club and the commission on education and Christian social concern of the First Methodist chruch.

SOUR CREAM COFFEE CAKE

Filling:

Mix ½ cup brown sugar, ½ cup chopped pecans and two teaspoons cinnamon and set aside. Beat ½ pound margarine, 1 cup white sugar and 2 eggs for 10 minutes. Then add 2 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon soda and ⅛ teaspoon salt.

Then add 1 cup sour cream and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Pour half of the butter into small loaf pan. Cover with half of filling. Add rest of the batter and cover with the remainder of the filling. Bake 45 minutes at 350 degrees.

Mrs. Stallings says that she doubles the recipe for three loaf cakes.

POTATO REFRIGERATOR ROLLS

1½ cup warm water and add, stirring to dissolve, 1 package of active dry yeast.

Stir in:

2-3 cup sugar

2-3 cup soft shortening

2 eggs

Mix in 7 to 7½ cups of flour. (A mixer can be used until after the sixth cup.)

Punch down and cover with refrigerator cloth. Two hours before ready to bake, roll and fashion into desired shape and let rise on greased cookie sheet 1 to 2 hours, or until they double in size. Bake 10 to 12 minutes in a 400 degree oven.

SPAGHETTI BROCCOLI AU GRATIN

6 green onions
2 frozen packages of broccoli
4 tablespoons butter, margarine or shortening
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper and dash of savory
8 ounce package of American cheese slices
½ cup light cream

Start oven at 375 degrees. Cook spaghetti and drain. Chop green onions. Cut cooked fresh broccoli into chunks. Cook green onions until limp in melted fat. Add broccoli, salt, pepper and savory. Cook five minutes over low heat. Put spaghetti in greased two quart casserole. Cover with half the cheese slices. Pour in cream.

Add layer of broccoli and cover with remaining cheese slices. Bake 30 minutes or until cheese is melted.

CHEF SPECIALS

Six giant crabs, being flown from Alaska to acquariums in Manchester, Hamburg and London, were transferred by the airline that shipped them to the cold-storage room of the kitchens at Orly Airport in Paris. The crabs planned to spend the night, then fly out the next day. But no one told the chef of the crabs' continuing flight plans, and he served them up in crab salad "a la facon du chef" to passengers in the terminal restaurant.

Giveaway Promoters Claim High Honesty

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Next to the chance of winning, the question that most often concerns entrants in games, contests and sweepstakes is whether or not the promotion is honestly conducted.

The possibilities of fraud and deception do exist, but the people who produce the games that now flood the mails and greet shoppers at supermarkets and gasoline stations say they do everything possible to assure honesty.

"Our existence depends upon this," said one game producer who devised many of the consumer contests for manufacturers and retail outlets.

The Post Office Department has statutory authority to investigate complaints. But, said a spokesman, "there are few violations. The people who sponsor these contests are responsible."

Another concern of the Post Office is the possibility of lottery, which exists if a PAYMENT is given for a CHANCE to win a PRIZE. If payment is not required, a lottery doesn't exist.

This explains why some companies must state on their sweepstakes that purchase—payment—is not required to enter or win. If the company required that you buy the product to enter, then a lottery would exist. National lotteries are illegal under U. S. law.

Contest promoters attempt to assure honesty by restricting to only a few persons any knowledge of prepicked winning entries. The reasoning is that wherever the human factor exists so does the chance of error or deceit.

In a number of sweepstakes, for example, the company that devises the game knows the winning numerals. But the client, a toothpaste manufacturer for example, isn't supposed to know. Neither is the company that does the mailing.

Nevertheless, for proof of honesty, promoters usually must ask that you accept their integrity, their reputation, their own self-interest in honesty. "We can't always show you proof," one said.

Another explains his method this way. The game is a numbers sweepstakes in which the winning numerals are prepicked and then mailed. The entry is to be returned to the sponsoring company or store.

"Assume," he said, "that one million numbers are to be mailed. We receive one million preprinted coupons from the printer. We then superimpose the contest numerals in sequence by a numbering device.

"Then we toss the numbers into an electronic fishbowl. We don't really use a bowl. We use an electric computer which picks the winners by random choice. We now have matched the number to the prize.

"The winning numbers then go into a vault. We don't tell the sponsoring company. Nor do we tell the mailer. We pick the numbers, but since we don't do the mailing we're not able to choose who'll get these numbers.

"Up to this time, nobody outside our company knows the lucky numerals. We may, however, send a key or code to the sponsor to aid him in sorting returns. The code would help identify possible winners from nonwinners."

"Once in a while," he said, "a contest has only one winning number. There might be 1,000 copies of this number and 1,000 prizes. In this case the 1,000 winning numbers, all identical, are slipped at random among nonwinners.

"What prevents the inserter from pocketing a winner? The inserting is made by an executive. He's bonded for $250,000. And he's paid enough so he isn't inclined to steal."

RECIPES

DELIGHTFUL CITRUS

Broiled grapefruit -- Just sprinkle grapefruit halves with sugar and a dash of spice-cinnamon, mace or nutmeg. Then dot with bits of table fat and broil 10-15 minutes with direct heat, on the broiler rack set 3 to 4 inches from the heat. When the grapefruit halves are just slightly browned and heated through, serve them hot. Or, try baking the grapefruit halves 15 minutes in an oven set at 400 degrees.

Grapefruit - Fruit cups - A grapefruit - cranberry cup starts with tangy grapefruit sections and then is topped with a combination of ground raw cranberries and ground whole oranges, sweetened to taste. Another gay combination is grapefruit and orange sections with sliced strawberries-garnished with mint. Or grapefruit sections may be combined with raspberries, melon balls or cubes, peaches, pears, banana slices, seeded grapes, diced apricots, apples, pineapples or cherries.

Golden Fruit Ambrosia - Thaw 12 oz. pkg. frozen, sliced peaches, and 14 oz. can frozen pineapple chunks. Drain well and pour juices into bowl. Add 2 tblsp. lemon juice to other juices and mix well. Pare and section 3 seedless oranges and 2 seedless grapefruit. Place all fruits in serving bowl and pour combined fruit juices over all.

PLENTIFUL FOODS FOR NOVEMBER

Festive foods for the coming holidays are in store -- in fact, they will be in stores throughout November, according to reports of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Turkeys and raisins share the top of the Plentiful Foods List for the month as determined by USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service. Other expected abundances include grapes, pears, pork and dry beans.

Edwin Booth, noted actor, was born Nov. 13, 1833.

Trick-Treater Shot to Death

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A 10-year-old boy, running home with a sack of Halloween "trick-or-treat" goodies, was shot to death and two teen-agers are being held, police said.

Robert James Tucker was killed Monday night while he and another 10-year-old, William Thomas, were going home.

The shooting climaxed what police said was one of the most destructive and violent Halloween nights on record for the city. Other incidents involved bricks, rocks and eggs being hurled at automobiles and homes.

½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper and dash of savory
8 ounce package of American cheese slices
½ cup light cream

Start oven at 375 degrees. Cook spaghetti and drain. Chop green onions. Cut cooked fresh broccoli into chunks. Cook green onions until limp in melted fat. Add broccoli, salt, pepper and savory. Cook five minutes over low heat. Put spaghetti in greased two quart casserole. Cover with half the cheese slices. Pour in cream. Add layer of broccoli and cover with remaining cheese slices. Bake 30 minutes or until cheese is melted.

CHEF SPECIALS

Six giant crabs, being flown from Alaska to acquariums in Manchester, Hamburg and London, were transferred by the airline that shipped them to the cold-storage room of the kitchens at Orly Airport in Paris. The crabs planned to spend the night, then fly out the next day. But no one told the chef of the crabs' continuing flight plans, and he served them up in crab salad "a la facon du chef" to passengers in the terminal restaurant.

Giveaway Promoters Claim High Honesty

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Next to the chance of winning, the question that most often concerns entrants in games, contests and sweepstakes is whether or not the promotion is honestly conducted.

The possibilities of fraud and deception do exist, but the people who produce the games that now flood the mails and greet shoppers at supermarkets and gasoline stations say they do everything possible to assure honesty.

"Our existence depends upon this," said one game producer who devised many of the consumer contests for manufacturers and retail outlets.

The Post Office Department has statutory authority to investigate complaints. But, said a spokesman, "there are few violations. The people who sponsor these contests are responsible."

Another concern of the Post Office is the possibility of lottery, which exists if a PAYMENT is given for a CHANCE to win a PRIZE. If payment is not required, a lottery doesn't exist.

This explains why some companies must state on their sweepstakes that purchase—payment—is not required to enter or win. If the company required that you buy the product to enter, then a lottery would exist. National lotteries are illegal under U. S. law.

Contest promoters attempt to assure honesty by restricting to only a few persons any knowledge of prepicked winning entries. The reasoning is that wherever the human factor exists so does the chance of error or deceit.

In a number of sweepstakes, for example, the company that devises the game knows the winning numerals. But the client, a toothpaste manufacturer for example, isn't supposed to know. Neither is the company that does the mailing.

Nevertheless, for proof of honesty, promoters usually must ask that you accept their integrity, their reputation, their own self-interest in honesty. "We can't always show you proof," one said.

Another explains his method this way. The game is a numbers sweepstakes in which the winning numerals are prepicked and then mailed. The entry is to be returned to the sponsoring company or store.

"Assume," he said, "that one million numbers are to be mailed. We receive one million preprinted coupons from the printer. We then superimpose the contest numerals in sequence by a numbering device.

"Then we toss the numbers into an electronic fishbowl. We don't really use a bowl. We use an electric computer which picks the winners by random choice. We now have matched the number to the prize.

"The winning numbers then go into a vault. We don't tell the sponsoring company. Nor do we tell the mailer. We pick the numbers, but since we don't do the mailing we're not able to choose who'll get these numbers.

"Up to this time, nobody outside our company knows the lucky numerals. We may, however, send a key or code to the sponsor to aid him in sorting returns. The code would help identify possible winners from nonwinners."

"Once in a while," he said, "a contest has only one winning number. There might be 1,000 copies of this number and 1,000 prizes. In this case the 1,000 winning numbers, all identical, are slipped at random among nonwinners.

"What prevents the inserter from pocketing a winner? The inserting is made by an executive. He's bonded for $250,000. And he's paid enough so he isn't inclined to steal."

DELIGHTFUL CITRUS

Broiled grapefruit -- Just sprinkle grapefruit halves with sugar and a dash of spice-cinnamon, mace or nutmeg. Then dot with bits of table fat and broil 10-15 minutes with direct heat, on the broiler rack set 3 to 4 inches from the heat. When the grapefruit halves are just slightly browned and heated through, serve them hot. Or, try baking the grapefruit halves 15 minutes in an oven set at 400 degrees.

Grapefruit - Fruit cups - A grapefruit - cranberry cup starts with tangy grapefruit sections and then is topped with a combination of ground raw cranberries and ground whole oranges, sweetened to taste. Another gay combination is grapefruit and orange sections with sliced strawberries garnished with mint. Or grapefruit sections may be combined with raspberries, melon balls or cubes, peaches, pears, banana slices, seeded grapes, diced apricots, apples, pineapples or cherries.

Golden Fruit Ambrosia - Thaw 12 oz. pkg. frozen, sliced peaches, and 14 oz. can frozen pineapple chunks. Drain well and pour juices into bowl. Add 2 tblsp. lemon juice to other juices and mix well. Pare and section 3 seedless oranges and 2 seedless grapefruit. Place all fruits in serving bowl and pour combined fruit juices over all.

PLENTIFUL FOODS FOR NOVEMBER

Festive foods for the coming holidays are in store -- in fact, they will be in stores throughout November, according to reports of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Turkeys and raisins share the top of the Plentiful Foods List for the month as determined by USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service. Other expected abundances include grapes, pears, pork and dry beans.

Fresh produce counters are likely to contain eye-catching offerings of both grapes and pears during the next few weeks as cold weather varieties of both reach market.

An increasing supply of pork will provide a wide variety of attractively priced meat items for consumers.

Finally, dry beans of all varieties will offer budget-balancing opportunities.

Trick-Treater Shot to Death

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A 10-year-old boy, running home with a sack of Halloween "trick-or-treat" goodies, was shot to death and two teen-agers are being held, police said.

Robert James Tucker was killed Monday night while he and another 10-year-old, William Thomas, were going home.

The shooting climaxed what police said was one of the most destructive and violent Halloween nights on record for the city. Other incidents involved bricks, rocks and eggs being hurled at automobiles and homes.

Unions Strike Water Company

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Members of two unions went on strike at midnight Monday against the St. Louis County Water Co. over wages, working conditions, fringe benefits and what the company termed "important non-economic issues."

The unions are Local 335 of the Utility Workers Union and Local 448 of the Clerical Workers Union.

Dean Klossner, president of Local 335, said more than 200 members of his 275-member union voted Monday night and approved the strike by a 95 per cent margin. Officials of the clerical union were not available.

Frank E. Dolson, president of the firm, issued a statement that said in part:

"The work stoppage by those employes now striking will not curtail or reduce the water supply. Service will be continued through the efforts of our supervisory and non-union personnel.

". . .The company will make every effort to resolve the differences in a way not only fair to the employe and the company, but also to the water user who. . .ultimately must pay the burden."

Klossner said the company offered a three per cent package, but his local wants a five per cent increase in both wages and fringe benefits.

Wages for members of Local 335 range from $2.75 to $3.65 hourly, he said.

Meetings between both sides are scheduled for today.

Rolled Toffee Cream Pancakes Make Hostess Famous to Her Guests

"Crepes Suzette" has helped many a French chef establish his claim to fame. You'll be famous yourself when you serve these "Rolled Toffee Cream Pancakes," an American version of crepes with a surprise ingredient--toffee candy.

Bits of chocolate-covered English toffee candy add a sweet, crunchy consistency to the filling-topping of this elegant treat. These pancakes are a great finale for a dinner, a dessert bridge or an important Sunday brunch.

Add a dramatic touch to your party by cooking the pancakes in front of guests in an electric fry pan. Or, cook them earlier in the day and reheat in a bit of butter on the griddle just before serving.

Different? Yes, and as a French chef might say, with a kiss of the fingertips, "Vive la difference!"

Women's Health

VARICOSE VEINS VANQUISH VANITY

While the wrinkles of middle age may add character to a woman's face, and the rounding of her hips enhance her voluptuousness, there is no saving grace about one other frequent concomitant of middle age -- varicose veins.

Unsightly, and sometimes the cause of health problems, varicose veins are "dilated, tortuous blood vessels which have lost their elasticity," according to the American Medical Association. Since their function of maintaining return flow of blood is impaired, varicose veins can lead to impaired circulation and decreased nutrition of tissues.

Varicose veins seem to be a hereditary characteristic--and if they run in your family you'll probably develop them. But there are simple measures, says the AMA, which can delay their occurrence and make them less bothersome.

If possible choose an occupation that doesn't involve long hours of standing. Avoid clothing that might constrict the veins at the groin and knees and interfere with blood flow. When sitting elevate the legs.

PLANNING FAMILY AIDS MOTHERS', BABIES' HEALTH

Observing that the "production of physically and mentally healthy children is our nation's most important business," Dr. Stewart H. Clifford of Boston Hospital for Women told colleagues attending a recent meeting here that there is "evidence of very unfavorable effect upon the offspring when a mother begins her pregnancy career at an early age and then rapidly repeats her pregnancies without an adequate rest of recovery period between."

Dr. Clifford recommended that family planning advice and services be given women so that they would have time to rebuild their health between pregnancies and thus would bear healthier babies.

HEART MEETING NEWS ABOUT RHEUMATIC FEVER

Take your medicine as prescribed, exercise regularly, cut down (or out) cigarette smoking and you'll do your heart a great service. This is the good news reported at a recent meeting here of The American Heart Association.

According to a study of 532 children and adolescents with a history of rheumatic fever, those who took their prescribed prophylactic medication regularly were significantly less likely to suffer recurrences. The size of the tonsils also affected recurrences. Those with small tonsils who neglected their medication were four times more likely to be stricken again than those who stuck with their medication. Youngsters with large tonsils who didn't follow the doctor's orders were six times as likely to suffer recurrences.

CONCERNING EXERCISE

In a study of 8,000 men under 50 it was found that physical activity tends to forestall the onset of heart disease. The incidence in sedentary men was 4.8 percent as contrasted to 1.9 percent among active men. The latter were also found to suffer milder forms of heart disease when they were stricken.

CIGARETTES AND HEART

An examination of the coronary arteries of 645 men indicates that the coronary linings of heavy smokers had greater fatty deposits than those who smoked moderately or not at all. These fatty deposits narrow the channel through which blood flows. When the coronary arteries nourishing the heart are affected, the stage may be set for heart attack.

In 1939, in Hitler's Germany, Alexander Kirk was in charge of the American embassy in Berlin, and George Kenmawer was his counselor. Although food shortages made it difficult, Kirk gave an enormous buffet lunch every Sunday. There were perhaps a hundred guests who had standing invitations and about a hundred who were invited occasionally.

One Saturday, Kirk called Kenman into his office and told him he'd been ordered to Berlin for consultation and wouldn't be able to give the usual Sunday lunch. "Please take the necessary steps to call it off," he said to Kenman.

A few days later Kirk returned from Paris and called Kenman into his office. "You did a pretty good job canceling the Sunday lunch," he told Kenman. "There were only two people you forgot to tell."

"Who were they?" George asked.

"The chef and the Japanese ambassador," Kirk replied.

Stuffed Squash Popular Dish

One of the most popular dishes is this "Sausage-Stuffed Squash" made with acorn squash. The "stuffing" combines pork sausage, green onions and rice--smoothly blended and melded with canned tomato sauce with mushrooms. Stuff it into all kinds of squashes, both winter and summer varieties--Hubbard, zucchini, pattypan, etc.

The preparation is quick and easy. The recipe can be completed except for the final baking early in the day or the night before. Should you make it in advance, store in the refrigerator. Allow a little more time for the final baking as the food must heat thoroughly from a refrigerator temperature.

Complete the menu with buttered green beans, a fruit salad, sesame rolls, gingerbread with whipped cream and coffee for dessert.

SAUSAGE-STUFFED SQUASH
2 acorn or table queen squash
Melted butter
lb. ground pork sausage
1/4 cup chopped green onions
2 (8-oz.) cans tomato sauce with mushrooms
1/2 teasp. salt
Dash pepper
1 cup packaged precooked rice

Cut squash in half; remove seeds. Brush cut surfaces generously with melted butter. Place cut side down in baking dish and bake at 350 degrees F. for 35 minutes. Meanwhile, brown pork sausage; pour off excess fat. Add green onions and cook lightly. Add tomato sauce, water, salt and pepper. Bring to boil. Stir in rice. Remove from heat; cover and let stand 5 minutes. Remove squash from oven. Turn cut side up and fill with sausage-rice mixture. Continue baking at 350 degrees F. for 20 minutes or until squash is done. Makes 4 servings.

State Baptists Will Build New Center

JEFFERSON CITY -- The best attended Missouri Baptist convention in its 132-year history, meeting in First Baptist church, Springfield, adopted the financial plan for construction of a new Missouri Baptist building, approved the consolidation of two colleges under single administration and faculty, set up a goal for missionary, educational and benevolent causes for the year, doubled its goal for next year's state mission offering, approved another new $175,000 wing for its Home for Aged Baptists, voted to accept and promote the changes proposed by its annuity board in the Southern Baptist protection plan, and clarified its relationship to Missouri Baptist hospital due to that institution's policy on federal aid.

The convention voted two years ago to build a new Baptist building on a 17 1/2 acre side at the south city limits of Jefferson City. The site is located on new four-lane highway 54. This year's convention adopted the financial plan that will enable the final planning and the building program to proceed. The new building, replacing the present headquarters erected in 1948 in downtown Jefferson City, probably will be financed by a bond issue with a 15-year amortization.

The new structure will be built around a new organizational plan recommended by the convention's administration and approved by the executive board in April. Construction cost has not been determined, but it will involve a large office building and a separate but connected Missouri Baptist Press building with about 100,000 square feet of floor space in all. The earliest completion date will be late 1968 or early 1969.

The convention gave its approval to the consolidation of Hannibal-LaGrange College, Hannibal, Missouri, a junior college established in 1858 and the new Missouri Baptist College, St. Louis, a senior college in 1960. Both schools are owned by and controlled by the Missouri convention.

The St. Louis college is expected to open in 1967 on its new 80-acre campus located at the intersection of highway 40 and a new circumferential highway in St. Louis county west of St. Louis city limits. Its predecessor in St. Louis the last seven years has been the Hannibal-LaGrange college extension center.

The long-time president of Hannibal-LaGrange, Dr. L. A. Foster, was elected president of the new St. Louis school last spring. He will serve as president under the consolidation, which will operate both campuses under one administration, board of trustees and faculty. The Hannibal school will remain a junior college and the St. Louis college will be a four-year school.

Baptist churches in and near St. Louis have just finished a successful campaign for $1,250,000 to erect the first buildings on the new campus in St. Louis county.

The consolidation was recommended by the boards of trustees of the two colleges and the convention's executive board. The North Central Association of Colleges and Universities gave a favorable appraisal of the project.

The convention also adopted a record missionary, educational and benevolent goal for 1967 -- $3.6 million, $100,000 above the 1966 goal. Reports revealed that the convention churches gave $312,000 more through its cooperative program last year than in the previous year, a 10.3 percent increase. In addition to the cooperative program, the convention churches are expected to give another $2 1/4 million to these causes in 1967 through designated gifts.

In addition to the basic budget, there will be an advance section with the first $100,000 in excess of $3.6 million going to the new St. Louis college, and the excess of $3.7 million allocated 30 percent for Christian Education, 30 percent for state mission board development program and 40 percent to Southern Baptist causes outside Missouri.

Also approved was a special state missions offering in 1967 of $500,000, doubling this year's goal. Sixty-eight percent of the 1967 offering would go to Missouri Baptist colleges.

The increased support projected in the budgets for Christian education was matched by the spirit of the convention to face up to the needs of its schools. It unanimously accepted the recommendation of President Willard L. Bright in his president's address and auditorium and faculty, set up thorized the appointment of a Missouri Baptist Education study committee to report to the 1967 convention or before.

The convention's Home for Aged Baptists at Ironton, now completing a building program, was authorized to proceed with another new $175,000 residential wing.

Approval was also given a plan that will substantially increase the retirement, disability, and death benefits for Baptist ministers and church workers affiliated with the convention.

The convention adopted the recommendation of its executive board to recognize the independent status of the Missouri Baptist hospital in St. Louis and the fraternal relationship which exists between the hospital and the convention. The action was requested by the board of managers of the St. Louis hospital because the hospital will become increasingly involved with the federal government's health, education and welfare program in the future and this involvement inevitably would cause misunderstanding among Missouri Baptists in their position on separation of church and state.

The action taken by the convention on this point reaffirmed its "solemn conviction on separation of church and state" as recorded in its 1961 convention. The 1961 convention voted that no institution owned by or affiliated with the convention shall accept government grants for any purpose.

The convention reelected Rev. Willard L. Bright, pastor of First Baptist church at Lees Summit as president. Dr. Thomas S. Field, pastor of First Baptist church, Springfield, was elected vice president; Rev. Malcolm Younger, pastor of First Baptist Church, Thayer, recording secretary; and Russell L. Wren, insurance executive, Jefferson City, treasurer.

Next year's meeting of the convention will be in the First Baptist church, St. Johns of St. Louis, Oct. 24-26.

This year's convention registered 2,264 messengers and visitors, about 400 above the previous record. Reports revealed that 21 new churches were organized last year and that the 1,942 churches affiliated with the convention gave $30,680,557 for all purposes. More than $5.6 million of the total went to missionary causes throughout Missouri and the world.

Add a dramatic touch to your party by cooking the pancakes in front of guests in an electric fry pan. Or, cook them earlier in the day and reheat in a bit of butter on the griddle just before serving.

Different? Yes, and as a French chef might say, with a kiss of the fingertips, "Vive la difference!"

Women's Health

VARICOSE VEINS VANQUISH VANITY

While the wrinkles of middle age may add character to a woman's face, and the rounded volupteousness, there is no saving grace about one other frequent concomitant of middle age -- varicose veins.

Unsightly, and sometimes the cause of health problems, varicose veins are "dilated, tortuous blood vessels which have lost their elasticity," according to the American Medical Association. Since their function of maintaining return flow of blood is impaired, varicose veins can lead to impaired circulation and decreased nutrition of tissues.

Varicose veins seem to be a hereditary characteristic--and if they run in your family you'll probably develop them. But there are simple measures, says the AMA, which can delay their occurrence and make them less bothersome.

If possible choose an occupation that doesn't involve long hours of standing. Avoid clothing that might constrict the veins at the groin and knees and interfere with blood flow. When sitting elevate the legs.

PLANNING FAMILY AIDS MOTHERS', BABIES' HEALTH

Observing that the "production of physically and mentally healthy children is our nation's most important business," Dr. Stewart H. Clifford of Boston Hospital for Women told colleagues attending a recent meeting here that there is "evidence of very unfavorable effect upon the offspring when a mother begins her pregnancy career at an early age and then rapidly repeats her pregnancies without an adequate rest of recovery period between."

Dr. Clifford recommended that family planning advice and services be given women so that they would have time to rebuild their health between pregnancies and thus would bear healthier babies.

HEART MEETING NEWS ABOUT RHEUMATIC FEVER

Take your medicine as prescribed, exercise regularly, cut down (or out) cigarette smoking and you'll do your heart a great service. This is the good news reported at a recent meeting here of The American Heart Association.

According to a study of 532 children and adolescents with a history of rheumatic fever, those who took their prescribed prophylactic medication regularly were significantly less likely to suffer recurrences. The size of the tonsils also affected recurrences. Those with small tonsils who neglected their medication were four times more likely to be stricken again than those who stuck with their medication. Youngsters with large tonsils who didn't follow the doctor's orders were six times as likely to suffer recurrences.

CONCERNING EXERCISE

In a study of 8,000 men under 50 it was found that physical activity tends to forestall the onset of heart disease. The incidence in sedentary men was 4.8 percent as contrasted to 1.9 percent among active men. The latter were also found to suffer milder forms of heart disease when they were stricken.

CIGARETTES AND HEART

An examination of the coronary arteries of 645 men indicates that the coronary linings of heavy smokers had greater fatty deposits than those who smoked moderately or not at all. These fatty deposits narrow the channel through which blood flows. When the coronary arteries nourishing the heart are affected, the stage may be set for heart attack.

State Baptists Will Build New Center

JEFFERSON CITY -- The best attended Missouri Baptist convention in its 132-year history, meeting in First Baptist church, Springfield, adopted the financial plan for construction of a new Missouri Baptist building, approved the consolidation of two colleges under single administration and faculty, set up a goal for missionary, educational and benevolent causes for 1967, doubled its goal for next year's state mission offering, approved another new $175,000 wing for its Home for Aged Baptists, voted to accept and promote the changes proposed by its annuity board in the Southern Baptist protection plan, and clarified its relationship to Missouri Baptist hospital due to that institution's policy on federal aid.

The convention voted two years ago to build a new Baptist building on a 17 1/2 acre side at the south city limits of Jefferson City. The site is located on new four-lane highway 54. This year's convention adopted the financial plan that will enable the final planning and the building program to proceed. The new building, replacing the present headquarters erected in 1948 in downtown Jefferson City, probably will be financed by a bond issue with a 15-year amortization.

The new structure will be built around a new organizational plan recommended by the convention's administration and approved by the executive board in April. Construction cost has not been determined, but it will involve a large office building and a separate but connected auditorium. The new Missouri Baptist Press building with about 100,000 square feet of floor space in all. The earliest completion date will be in late 1968 or early 1969.

The convention gave its approval to the consolidation of Hannibal-LaGrange College, Hannibal, Missouri, a junior college established in 1858 and new Missouri Baptist College, as recorded in its 1961 convention. The 1961 convention voted that no institution owned by or affiliated with the convention shall accept government grants for any purpose.

The convention reelected Rev. Willard L. Bright, pastor of First Baptist church at Lees Summit as president. Dr. Thomas S. Field, pastor of First Baptist church, Springfield, was elected vice president; Rev. Malcolm Younger, pastor of First Baptist church, Thayer, recording secretary; and Russell L. Wren, insurance executive, Jefferson City, treasurer.

Next year's meeting of the convention will be in the First Baptist church, St. Johns of St. Louis, Oct. 24-26.

This year's convention registered 2,264 messengers and visitors, about 400 above the previous record. Reports revealed that 21 new churches were organized last year and that the 1,842 churches affiliated with the convention gave $30,680,557 for all purposes. More than $5.6 million of the total went to missionary causes throughout Missouri and the world.

Chicken en papillote--There's very good reason for cooking in foil or paper. Aromas, thus flavors, are locked in to permeate this chicken baked in a foil packet.

Foil Packet Seals in Flavor of Chicken

A method of cookery that has been known in France for hundreds of years--cooking in paper--has been brought to perfection now with the use of foil. There's an effective sealing-in of aromas and flavor (plus no pan scrubbing).

The foil must be turned back the last few minutes of baking to develop the golden crustiness we like chicken to have.

An ingredient that adds a special relish is convenient, canned tomato sauce with cheese. The tomato sauce is a well-known, popular brand which has recently been varied with Italian spices and herbs, plus Romano cheese. Result is wonderful rich flavor and body to vary such standbys as meat loaf, stews, pot roasts, gravies, etc.

CHICKEN EN PAPILLOTE
4 sheets aluminum foil
Salt
Pepper
Onion rings
Green pepper rings
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce with cheese

Place each chicken quarter on a sheet of foil. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top each chicken quarter with onion and green pepper rings. Pour tomato sauce with cheese over. Bring edges of foil up around chicken and seal. Place foil packets on baking sheet. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 1 hour. About 10 minutes before done, open packets slightly and baste with sauce in package. Leave packets open for remaining baking time. Makes 4 servings. Note: Chicken can be cooked in one large foil packet in baking dish. Follow same cooking time.

clothes that grow right along with the child, cause these have sure shot right up with mine. Of couse, we started out as rather fat, baggy, and saggy, clowns, and now we're sorta skinny and pinched about the neck looking, but still, I believe we could have made Lee do for at least one more year, and poor Brete, as tiny as he is, he has a whole lifetime of being a clown ahead of him. But, they revolted and rebelled, children seem to have a habit of doing that these days you know.--I suspect it's too much television. Lee absolutely refused to be laughable any longer, and of course, when he puts his foot down, so does half-pint (and usually right on top of my broken toe). So, between the chaos that resulted, a kind neighbor (the jelly lady to be exact), heard the furror and donated a dog ensemble for Brete, and poor Mama Mickey (I don't know why after having her darling outfits snubbed so), went tearing to the attic and after much searching found Lee a set of leather something or others to tie on his legs and the result--a cowboy, of sorts. But -- all was not lost, I called Genie and sure enough, we stuffed Stephen in one of those suits (much to his sorrow, as he wished to be a dog too). So, I felt some good come of the occasion after all, and if you remember one lopsided bat, one tearful clown, one cowboy, of sorts, and one mangy dog with golden curls that came a 'knockin at your door, I do hope you treated them well, and a little something for those mothers behind the scenes would have been appreciated also. Like for instance:

OLD FASHIONS
2-3 jigger of orange juice
1 dash of bitters
1 shot of bourbon
Pour in glass and (not a big glass, an old fashioned glass), fill rest of way with ice and club soda or 7-Up. Pretty tasty!

Have these ready next Hallowe'en please, when heaven only knows what (along with at least one clown) comes trick or treating at your house --- don't forget or I know one witch for sure who'll be out to get YOU!!!

Congress this year passed 11 bills to improve the nation's health programs.

Am pleased to report we laumched a new program to assist young men and women who wish to work in the health field. This program will meet the nation's urgent need for more x-ray technicians, medical technologists, general hygienists, and physical therapists. These experts will fill important roles here in the United States and in such places as Viet Nam.

Another is a bill to help draw together all state health planning services. To be established under the bil are State health planning councils, on which half the members must be consumers of health services. This bill makes it possible for the states to run their own health programs rather than having Federal officials telling them what to do.

We passed major increases in funds for our Clean Air program. For our attack on air pollution in the nation's cities, Congress approved $196,000,000 for local programs in the next three years.

We passed a new program to combat narcotic addiction by increasing our efforts to rehabilitate convicted narcotics offenders. Excluded from the bill are people who are charged with crimes of violence and people who push or traffic narcotics. Included in the bill is assistance for state anti-addiction programs.

We passed the Child Protection Act which will tighten our regulations against extremely dangerous toys. This will help us put a stop to the many injuries and deaths caused each year by poisonour or hazardous playthings.

Along with the Demonstration Cities bill, we passed a provision to allow mortgage insurance for non-profit group practice medical and dental facilities. This legislation has been in the Congress for many years.

We passed a greatly increased water pollution and waste treatment construction bill. Many treatment plants have already been constructed in Missouri under earlier programs strengthened by this bill.

When we passed the tax revision act this year, we made it possible for everyone over 72 years old to have some Social Security benefits.

We passed a bill to stop the mistreatment of dogs and cats used in medical research. In doing so, we brought more humane practices for these animals while increasing the health standards of biomedical research.

We passed the Traffic Safety Act which will increase our research on how to save lives on our highways.

Finally, we approved a new program of neighborhood health centers. Included in this program is increased assistance for areas which are suffering from economic stagnation.

A SONG TO SING

Of happiness or care,
He gives my heart a song to sing,
For God is always there.

The Right of the Right To Work

A DIKE AGAINST UNCHECKED POWER. . .

N. BURNETT MAGRUDER
Executive Director, Louisville Area Council of Churches, Louisville, Ky.

Dr. Magruder, a native of Missouri, has degrees from William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo.; Yale University Divinity School; and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville. First in his class at Yale in 1939, he was granted a fellowship to study labor economics at Columbia University. Rev. Magruder is a regular contributor to agricultural and industrial magazines, and religious and other secular publications.

THE SURVIVAL of the individual in an age of collectivism may well be the greatest moral and spiritual issue of our time. A mammoth complex--a Goliath of mass-power towers over the individual. He is confronted by this Leviathan in government, business and labor.

In America the historic protective safeguard for the individual has been the concept of limited government and restraint of authoritarian power. The heart of this doctrine of limited power is the fact that the individual derives his rights from God alone and that God alone is the source of power.

Historically both government and business have been brought under a large body of restraining law but the mass-power of organized labor has enjoyed a certain immunity from legal restraint, and the rule of moral principle. It has, so to speak, been a law unto itself.

The union shop -- the heart of compulsory unionism -- is a prime example of the subjection of the individual to the reign of unchecked mass-power. By this device, government, management and labor all agree collectively to abrogate and foreclose the representative rights of individual workers.

The right to work law as a law should not be necessary in a nation consistently governed by constitutional law. However it has become a legal necessity to serve as a dike against the swelling stream of unchecked mass-power. Right to work enforces the rule of natural rights as defined in our constitution. It declares that as a moral being, man's rights cannot be abrogated by a collective combine of power. Might does not make right.

Thus this effort to maintain freedom for the individual in the realm of business and labor is part of the historic struggle of our time -- namely, the survival of the individual in an age of collectivism.

Magna Carta and the Rule of Law

But the revival of Magna Carta in the political conflicts of the early seventeenth century is significant not merely because these conflicts were of importance in the making of the modern British constitution, but because they coincided with, and to some extent caused, the first English settlements in America. In this way the Great Charter travelled across the Atlantic.

Early expeditions under the great explorers Gilbert Frobisher, Drake, and Raleigh had failed to effect any permanent settlements, but on the 13th of May, 1607, an expedition landed at Jamestown, a permanent settlement was formed, and a nation was born. The motives of this settlement and of those that followed were various---political, to restrict the overweaning power of Spain; religious, either (as in Virginia) to spread the Christian religion or (as in New England) to provide a place where the settlers could establish their own particular form of Christianity; and economic, the expeditions being backed by the great merchant adventurers of those times.

But whatever the motives, the settlers in each case brought with them the common law of England. "The law and custom of England" wrote Sir Edward Coke, "is the inheritance of the subject." It was immediately assumed to be in force. It was embodied in constitutions and ordinances. Sir Edward Coke himself took a major hand in the drafting of the first Virginia Charter in 1906 granting "all liberties, franchies and immunities" that the settlers would have if living in England. These included the guarantees of Magna Carta which he so admired and which he did so much to revive and re-interpret. Not only were the guarantees of Magna Carta included in many other constitutions, but it is of note that the Massachusetts magistrates in 1635 ordained that "some men should be appointed to form a body of grounds of laws, in resumblance to a Magna Carta, which should be received for fundamental laws." And in 1645 the Massachusetts General Court stated that "our government itself is framed according to our charter and the fundamental and common laws of England, and carried on according to the same," and they printed in parallel columns the English Constitution, beginning with Magna Carta, and the corresponding provisions of colonial law. The constitutions of Virginia and Maryland, as well as Massachusetts, guaranteed the English law and English liberties to their inhabitants, but, though clearly influenced by seventeenth century lawyers' interpretation of Magna Carta and the medieval law, the settlers' own interpretation of it was unsophisticated and, in New England at any rate, strongly tinged with religious fundamentalism. In 1642, for instance, an English lawyer wrote from Boston that colonial courts ignored the common law and tried instead to administer the law of Moses. There were few trained lawyers amongst the early settlers; and even judges were commonly unlearned in the law; the colonists therefore could do little more than apply to American problems the half-understood maxims of the English common law and, as the Massachusetts General Court put it in 1695, "Where there is noe law, then as nere the lawe of God" as possible.

Your Dental Health

17 - Preventing Periodontal Disease

Your best security against periodontal (gum) disease is to stop it before it starts.

Allowed to develop, inflammation of the gums spreads to the other tissues -- including the bone around the teeth--destroying the tissues and leaving the teeth without support.

The most common cause of periodontal disease is the formation of calculus, or tartar, on the necks and roots of the teeth.

Calculus is a hard, crust-like substance composed chiefly of minerals from saliva, bacteria and other substances normally found in the mouth. It is similar to the deposit that forms inside a tea kettle -- but much harder to remove.

Poisonous products from bacteria on the surface of the calculus as well as the calculus itself irritate the gums, causing them to well and move away from the teeth. More calculus forms in the pockets between teeth and gums, deepening the pockets, setting the stage for infection, gum disease and the serious periodontal disorders that all too often result in tooth loss.

Proper toothbrushing after meals, including brushing of the gums, helps prevent calculus from forming. But toothbrushing cannot completely prevent it. That's why periodic visits to your dentist, to have him remove all stains and deposits, is an important supplement to home oral hygiene. The careful removal of calculus from around every tooth is a major preventive measure.

Your dentist will also make x-ray examinations of your teeth to search for changes in the supporting bone that are not otherwise detectable and that could cause tooth loss.

He will remove such sources of gum irritation as worn-out fillings and crowns and the sharp edges of cavities in decayed teeth.

If a tooth has been lost or extracted, he will replace it with an artificial one, since drifting of remaining teeth into the space can also cause periodontal disease. The resulting malpositioned teeth lead to more wedging of food between the teeth and to improper meeting of the teeth when you chew.

The shock and uneven pressure of poor tooth contact often cause damage to the tooth's supporting tissues.

Other conditions your dentist will correct are ill-fitting partial dentures or bridges. These sometimes irritate and injure the tissues, and even the best of dentures must be adjusted occasionally to allow for the continual changes in the structure of your mouth.

Finally, your dentist will advise you on proper diet, since there is evidence that faulty nutrition may be a factor in periodontal disease.

Other causes, which you can eliminate yourself, are such habits as grinding the teeth, prolonged resting of the chin on the hand, and improper use of toothpicks.

In the prevention of periodontal disease, as in other aspects of good mouth care, you and your dentist are partners for health.

Gem Intrigue Denied in Brazil

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Brazilian official says allegations of intrigue related by a convicted smuggler who fled Brazil and returned to his Texas home are "ridiculous."

The Texan, pilot Joseph A. Truhill, 47, of Richardson, said his conviction resulted from plans of Gen. Rio Grandino Kruel, former chief of Brazil's federal security police, to seize a B26 aircraft for use in a search for a missing 400-carat diamond named 007.

The plane was owned by Sam Sexton Jr., 41, of Fort Smith, Ark., who escaped last week with Truhill and Joseph McCutcheon, 36, also of Fort Smith. The plane still is held in Brazil.

Brasilia Police Chief Jurandir Palma Cabral said Truhill's charge was "ridiculous," since the security police "can use air force planes whenever it needs them."

U.S. officials in Brazil also cast private doubts on a link between the diamond and the smuggling convictions earlier this year of Truhill, Sexton, McCutcheon and Ralph E. Dial, 47, an Oklahoma City geologist.

They said timing of the events did not match.

Dial, who did not escape, said he was being treated "very nice" but that the others' escapes may delay his bid for freedom from a seven-year sentence.

The Right of the Right To Work

A DIKE AGAINST UNCHECKED POWER. . .

N. BURNETT MAGRUDER

Dr. Magruder, a native of Missouri, has degrees from William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo.; Yale University Divinity School; and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville. First in his class at Yale in 1939, he was granted a fellowship to study labor economics at Columbia University. Rev. Magruder is a regular contributor to agricultural and industrial magazines, and religious and other secular publications.

THE SURVIVAL of the individual in an age of collectivism may well be the greatest moral and spiritual issue of our time. A mammoth complex--a Goliath of mass-power towers over the individual. He is confronted by this Leviathan in government, business and labor.

In America the historic protective safeguard for the individual has been the concept of limited government and restraint of authoritarian power. The heart of this doctrine of limited power is the fact that the individual derives his rights from God alone and that God alone is the source of power.

Historically both government and business have been brought under a large body of restraining law but the mass-power of organized labor has enjoyed a certain immunity from legal restraint, and the rule of moral principle. It has, so to speak, been a law unto itself.

The union shop -- the heart of compulsory unionism -- is a prime example of the subjection of the individual to the reign of unchecked mass-power. By this device, government, management and labor all agree collectively to abrogate and foreclose the representative rights of individual workers.

The right to work law as a law should not be necessary in a nation consistently governed by constitutional law. However it has become a legal necessity to serve as a dike against the swelling stream of unchecked mass-power. Right to work enforces the rule of natural rights as defined in our constitution. It declares that as a moral being, man's rights cannot be abrogated by a collective combine of power. Might does not make right.

Thus this effort to maintain freedom for the individual in the realm of business and labor is part of the historic struggle of our time -- namely, the survival of the individual in an age of collectivism.

Magna Carta and the Rule of Law

But the revival of Magna Carta in the political conflicts of the early seventeenth century is significant not merely because these conflicts were of importance in the making of the modern British constitution, but because they coincided with, and to some extent caused, the first English settlements in America. In this way the Great Charter travelled across the Atlantic.

Early expeditions under the great explorers Gilbert Frobisher, Drake, and Raleigh had failed to effect any permanent settlements, but on the 13th of May, 1607, an expedition landed at Jamestown, a permanent settlement was formed, and a nation was born. The motives of this settlement and of those that followed were various---political, to restrict the overweaning power of Spain; religious, either (as in Virginia) to spread the Christian religion or (as in New England) to provide a place where the settlers could establish their own particular form of Christianity; and economic, the expeditions being backed by the great merchant adventurers of those times.

But whatever the motives, the settlers in each case brought with them the common law of England. "The law and custom of England" wrote Sir Edward Coke, "is the inheritance of the subject." It was immediately assumed to be in force. It was embodied in constitutions and ordinances. Sir Edward Coke himself took a major hand in the drafting of the first Virginia Charter in 1906 granting "all liberties, franchies and immunities" that the settlers would have if living in England. These included the guarantees of Magna Carta which he so admired and which he did so much to revive and re-interpret. Not only were the guarantees of Magna Carta included in many other constitutions, but it is of note that the Massachusetts magistrates in 1635 ordained that "some men should be appointed to form a body of grounds of laws, in resumblance to a Magna Carta, which should be received for fundamental laws." And in 1645 the Massachusetts General Court stated that "our government itself is framed according to our charter and the fundamental and common laws of England, and carried on according to the same," and they printed in parallel columns the English Constitution, beginning with Magna Carta, and the corresponding provisions of colonial law. The constitutions of Virginia and Maryland, as well as Massachusetts, guaranteed the English law and English liberties to their inhabitants, but, though clearly influenced by seventeenth century lawyers' interpretation of Magna Carta and the medieval law, the settlers' own interpretation of it was unsophisticated and, in New England at any rate, strongly tinged with religious fundamentalism. In 1642, for instance, an English lawyer wrote from Boston that colonial courts ignored the common law and tried instead to administer the law of Moses. There were few trained lawyers amongst the early settlers; and even judges were commonly unlearned in the law; the colonists therefore could do little more than apply to American problems the half-understood maxims of the English common law and, as the Massachusetts General Court put it in 1695, "Where there is noe law, then as nere the lawe of God" as possible.

Police were seeking a sniper believed to have been shooting at a group of youths with a .30 caliber carbine.

Your Dental Health

17 - Preventing Periodontal Disease

Your best security against periodontal (gum) disease is to stop it before it starts.

Allowed to develop, inflammation of the gums spreads to the other tissues -- including the bone around the teeth-destroying the tissues and leaving the teeth without support.

The most common cause of periodontal disease is the formation of calculus, or tartar, on the necks and roots of the teeth.

Calculus is a hard, crust-like substance composed chiefly of minerals from saliva, bacteria and other substances normally found in the mouth. It is similar to the deposit that forms inside a tea kettle -- but much harder to remove.

Poisonous products from bacteria on the surface of the calculus as well as the calculus itself irritate the gums, causing them to well and move away from the teeth. More calculus forms in the pockets between teeth and gums, deepening the pockets, setting the stage for infection, gum disease and the serious periodontal disorders that all too often result in tooth loss.

Proper toothbrushing after meals, including brushing of the gums, helps prevent calculus from forming. But toothbrushing cannot completely prevent it. That's why periodic visits to your dentist, to have him remove all stains and deposits, is an important supplement to home oral hygiene. The careful removal of calculus from around every tooth is a major preventive measure.

Your dentist will also make x-ray examinations of your teeth to search for changes in the supporting bone that are not otherwise detectable and that could cause tooth loss.

He will remove such sources of gum irritation as worn-out fillings and crowns and the sharp edges of cavities in decayed teeth.

If a tooth has been lost or extracted, he will replace it with an artificial one, since drifting of remaining teeth into the space can also cause periodontal disease. The resulting malpositioned teeth lead to more wedging of food between the teeth and to improper meeting of the teeth when you chew.

The shock and uneven pressure of poor tooth contact often cause damage to the tooth's supporting tissues.

Other conditions your dentist will correct are ill-fitting partial dentures or bridges. These sometimes irritate and injure the tissues, and even the best of dentures must be adjusted occasionally to allow for the continual changes in the structure of your mouth.

Finally, your dentist will advise you on proper diet, since there is evidence that faulty nutrition may be a factor in periodontal disease.

Other causes, which you can eliminate yourself, are such habits as grinding the teeth, prolonged resting of the chin on the hand, and improper use of toothpicks.
